

Wholesale Rate Hike Is Granted

Missouri Public Service Co., announced Friday that effective last Monday its natural gas rates went up by an average 70 cents a month in its southern gas system.

The communities affected by the action include Sedalia, Clinton, Deerfield, Henrietta, Lexington, Marshall, Leeton, Nevada, Platte City, Richmond, Tracy and Weston.

MPSC cited increases in cost of wholesale natural gas purchased from Cities Service Gas Co., as the reason for the increase.

William E. Van Dyke, MPSC vice-president of sales, said the wholesale gas rate had been approved by the Federal Power Commission, which, he said, certified it as being consistent with regulations of Phase 2 of the Nixon administration's economic plan.

The Missouri Public Service Commission, which still has an MPSC rate increase case pending in its file, also approved the hike, the company reported.

The commission earlier this month set Dec. 7 as the date for a hearing on a request for interim and permanent rate increases for gas and electrical power services. That hearing will still be held. Monday's increase has no bearing on the case, it was reported here.

The company asked the commission to approve increases of $2,715,000 for electrical services and $380,000 for gas services.

For Second Time

Indians Cross Border

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Defense Ministry said tonight that Indian troops crossed into East Pakistan for the second time this week "in self-defense" to stop a Pakistani artillery attack on Indian territory.

The Indian troops crossed into East Pakistan about 80 miles north of Calcutta, according to a communique, and destroyed a Pakistani tank and inflicted 80 casualties.

The Indians suffered light casualties in the engagement, the statement said.

The statement did not say when the border crossing actually took place although it indicated that it was made Thursday or today.

The Indians acted under authority given them by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi that they could go into East Pakistan for self-defense.

The Pakistani army earlier claimed it had halted Indian troops advancing on five fronts into East Pakistan.

At the same time, President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan acknowledged the existence of political unrest in West Pakistan by banning the National Awami party. He accused it of "trying to foment revolt in West Pakistan," Radio Pakistan reported.

A dispatch from Dacca said an army spokesman reported that forces repulsed

Indian attacks in border areas at Jessore, Benapole, Comilla, Chittagong and Sylhet. Dacca is the capital of East Pakistan province.

He said the Indians were "badly mauled," suffering more than 330 men killed—including some 200 in Comilla alone—and losing a huge quantity of arms and ammunition.

Indian officials here have consistently denied that any government troops are fighting in East Pakistan on a sustained basis.

In the Rajshahi district at Sardah, Indian troops have been seen digging trenches and laying antipersonnel and antitank mines, the Pakistani spokesman said, adding that more reinforcements are being brought in to be deployed on the borders.

In the Sylhet area the Indian attack was launched by the 5th Gurkha Regiment at Jantiapur but was halted Thursday and the area littered with the bodies of Indian soldiers, he said.

In the Comilla area, the Pakistani army spokesman said, all Indian maneuvers failed to gain any ground.

A major offensive came from the Indian side at Hilli in East Pakistan's northern sector but the Indians were "dislodged from the area" where they had earlier gained a small portion of territory.

The battle at Hilli had been raging during the night and continued through the early hours of the day, the army source said.

The national Awami party banned by Yahya Khan had emerged as the largest single political group in last December's provincial elections.

The party won 13 of 40 seats in the northwest frontier provincial elections, eight out of 20 in Baluchistan and six seats in the National Assembly.

It was not immediately clear whether any party members had been arrested or whether the party's legislators would be unseated.

The provincial assemblies elected last December never met because of the East Pakistan crisis that erupted in March. The assembly was to have drawn up a constitution creating a civilian government to replace the military regime headed by Yahya Khan.

"Some of its leaders are in collaboration with the enemy," said a statement broadcast by the government radio.

"The aims adopted by this party are identical of those of the enemy. It is trying to foment revolt in West Pakistan."

The National Awami party is the second to be banned by the president this year.

Authorities Still Seeking 'Cool' Thief of Jetliner

WOODLAND, Ore. (AP) — Authorities searched by ground and air today for a "very cool" hijacker, a middle-age man dressed in a business suit and raincoat who parachuted from a jet airliner with a $200,000 ransom.

But a sheriff's deputy said, "He's probably long gone."

The pilot of the Northwest Airlines Boeing 727 said he believed the man "took leave of us" in the Woodland area, about 25 miles north of Portland.

The hijacker, described as tall, thin and of Latin American appearance, took control of the plane Wednesday night, told a stewardess he had a bomb, that he wanted to go to Mexico and then gave a series of precise orders—including landing and getting the money and parachutes—which eventually led to his escape.

It was the first time an aircraft hijacker had used a parachute and the largest sum of money one has escaped with in the United States.

Military and privately owned helicopters flew above the farming areas and timberland here today though authorities held out little hope for the capture of the air pirate.

The FBI said he had used the name D. B. Cooper when he boarded the plane in Portland.

"That's the name he used when he bought his ticket," an FBI agent said. "But he's probably no more D. B. Cooper than I am."

When the parachutes and the cash were delivered to him at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport, he allowed the 36 other passengers and two stewardesses to debarb. The pilot, Capt William Scott, and three other crew members were ordered to remain aboard.

Airborne for a refueling at Reno, the hijacker ordered Scott to fly no higher than 10,000 feet, with flaps and landing gear down to keep the airliner's speed at about 200 miles per hour.

He also directed that the rear exit door of the 727 be left open, with the stairs extended as they would be in taking on or discharging passengers on the ground.

And somewhere between Seattle and Reno he departed. Also gone were the $200,000 and two of the four parachutes he had been given.

Scott said during the flight that indicator lights in the cockpit showed the rear stairwell was being operated.

New Bids Opened On Picnic Pavilion

Modifications in original plans and a lack of state funds to finance a new picnic pavilion at the Missouri State Fairgrounds caused a temporary delay in the project, but Tuesday new bids were opened and the facility is now expected to be ready for use by campers next spring.

The original low bidder, Borchers and Heimsoth Construction Co., Cole Camp, out-bid its four competitors with a low bid of $46,988 for the 8,000-square-foot structure. Originally, the Cole Camp firm bid against only one other company, Lindhardt Construction Co., Jefferson City.

It was learned from the State Division of Planning and Construction Friday that the bid covers estimated labor costs only. Materials for the open-sided building will be furnished by the State Fair and will cost an estimated $30,000.

The latest bids were opened in the office of John Paulus, director of the division. Stan Deimler, administrative officer of the division, told The Democrat-Capital that the federal government would pay an estimated $25,000 of the cost, with the state providing the balance.

The Borchers and Heimsoth bid was higher than the state's original cost estimate of $40,000, according to Deimler.

It was, however, considerably lower than the other four bids. They were from Stalight Buildings, St. Joseph, $70,896; Tempo Builders, Inc., Marshall, $50,625.28; M. C. Spencer Construction Co., Kansas City, $91,880; and Prost Builders, Inc., Jefferson City, $49,400. The Lindhardt firm apparently did not resubmit a bid.

A shortage in state funds earlier this year and the need for minor modifications in the structure caused the delay in construction, according to Don Buller of Sammons and Buller, architects who designed the building.

The pavilion will be located on a 60-acre camping ground at the Fair and will be open to the public, at an unannounced fee, during the camping season, it was reported.

The building will feature roof supports made from native field stone, a raised platform which can be used by entertainment groups and an area in which a kitchen can eventually be installed.

The camping facilities will include 330 feet of new sewer lines and 170 feet of water lines, both connected to the present system.

Not Many People Know It

By BOB SHEUE

Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

When they meet they talk about bass string wires, electrical strobos, humidity, swelling, pitch and tone. And with those common interests, the chances are good you might spend the better part of a day trying to figure out what vocation they share in common.

Electrically-oriented weathermen, maybe? From the swelling, pitch and tone hints you might guess they'd be athletic trainers. Or perhaps they're a band of central Missouri physicists, devising some strange new weaponry based on an interaction of electrical signals and sound waves which, when triggered in the proper atmosphere, could create a holocaust more spectacular than anything Dr. Strangelove ever dreamed of!

Actually, and fortunately for the peoples of the Earth, they're the Ozark Chapter of the Piano Technicians Guild.

Feel let down?

You shouldn't. Because this small group of nine area residents, three of them Sedalians, has been chosen the outstanding small chapter of the Piano Technicians Guild, an organization which encompasses all 50 states, Puerto Rico, Canada, Mexico and England. And for the second year in a row, at that.

To celebrate that designation, the Ozark Chapter of the PTG will hold its annual banquet at 2 p.m. Sunday at the State Fair Restaurant, according to George A. Young, Route 4, the group's vice-president.

The other two Sedalians who claim membership in this elite crew are J. W. Watts, 1605 South Carr, and Michael Rooks, 314 South Park.

Young explained that the chapter, which has been in existence for about five years, is judged with more than 200 other such groups in the United States, and an undetermined number in other guild countries.

Judging is predicated on a chapter's activity in restoration projects, workshop and seminar attendance and group meetings, Young said. Money for the chapter is also raised through the rebuilding projects, he added.

Young said he was not sure who would attend Sunday's banquet, but he added that several of the PTG national officers had been invited.

The chapter, which Young admits is virtually unknown, meets monthly in Warsaw at the home of the group's past president, H. H. Brockman. Other members are Homer Tucker, Osceola, president; Mrs. Hazel Winrod, Columbia, secretary; Kenneth Flaten, Nevada; Kenneth Carter, Marshall; and John Medlock, California. Both Carter and Medlock are blind tutors. Young is the chapter's vice-president and Rooks serves as program chairman.

Young explained that members of the Ozark Chapter are craftsmen who have to pass an examination before a reviewing board prior to becoming a registered member of the PTG.

Exuding an enthusiasm for his trade that few can boast, Young said that there are 10,000 pianos in America, and only 8,000 registered craftsmen to tune them.

"A person has to love a piano if he's going to work on it," Young said. "A piano is probably the most loved and least understood musical instrument in the world."

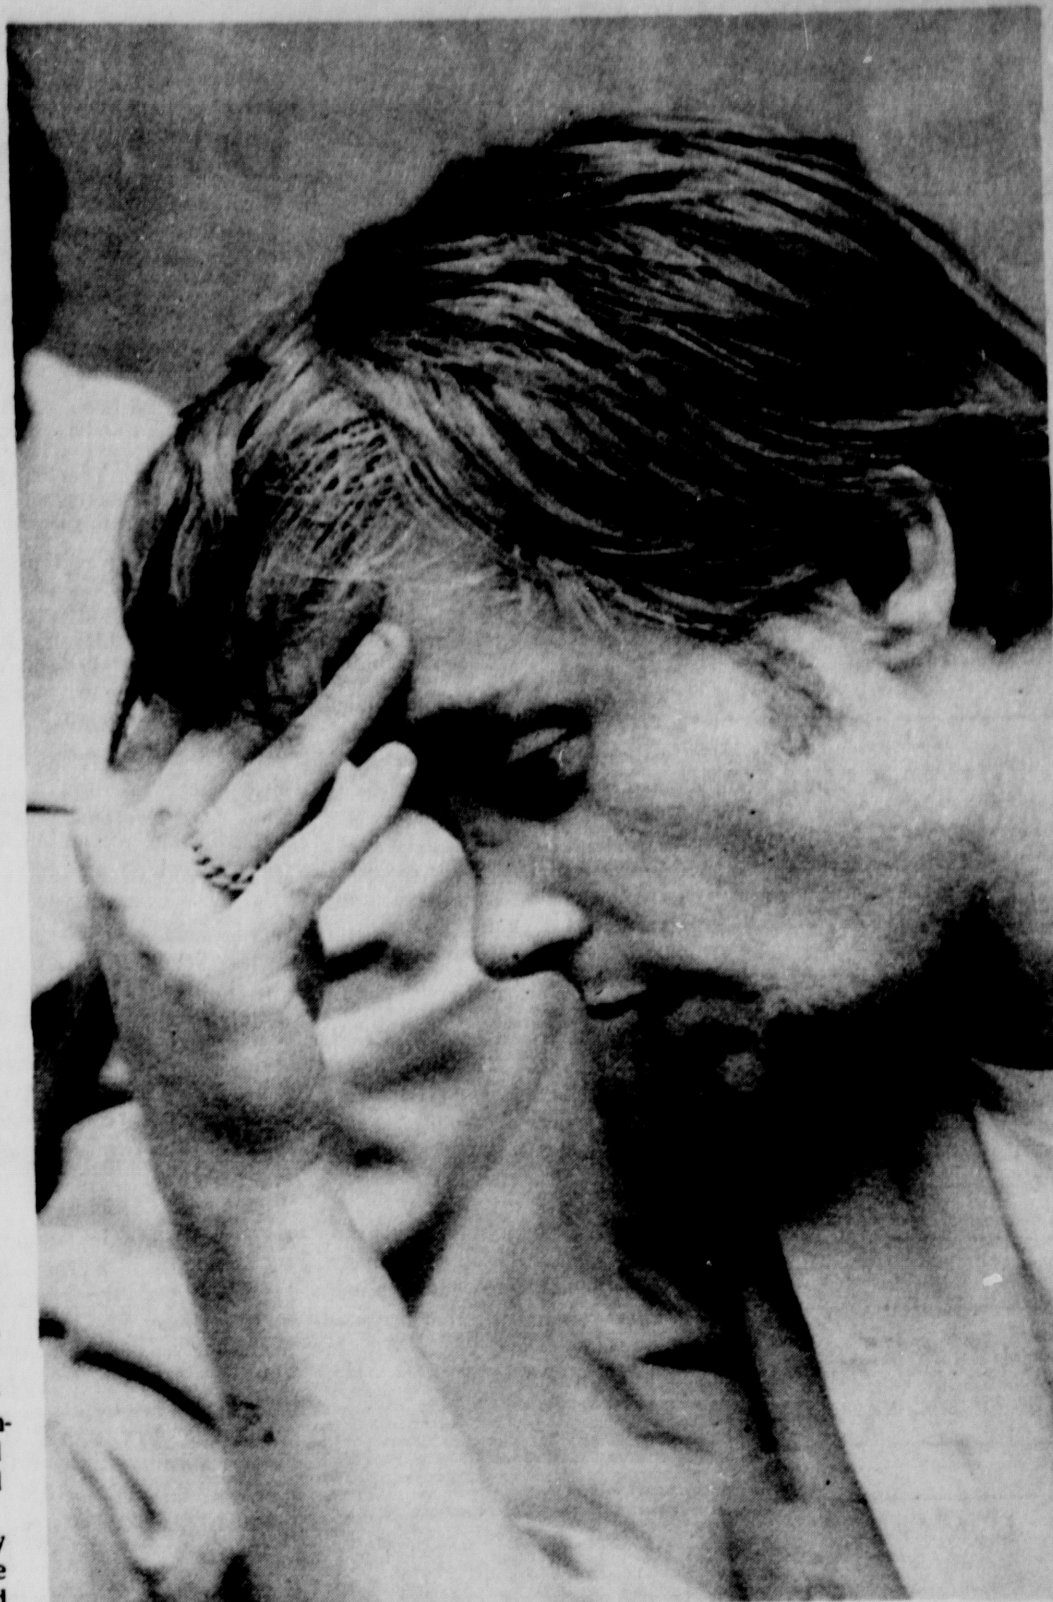

"A lot of people don't understand that humidity and temperature are important to a piano," Young said. "If it gets too humid and warm in a room, then the pitch will go down. If it gets too cold, then the pitch goes up," he added. "Ideally, you need 42 per cent humidity to assure proper pitch, and we have a device now which will electronically control humidity within a piano."

"When we have chapter meetings," Young continued, "we discuss problems each of us encounters in our work and we think this is beneficial to us and our customers."

"We learn things from each other which might save someone else work in the future."

"Once," Young recalled, "I had taken

Officials Gain Prison Control

RAHWAY, N.J. (AP) — Officials are again in control of Rahway State Prison after reaching a peaceful agreement with 500 rebellious inmates who held two wings of the maximum security prison for 24 hours.

The prisoners released their remaining five hostages on Thanksgiving night in return for a promise of no reprisals against them. They also were permitted to air their grievances to three newsmen who entered the prison.

Officials pledged full negotiations on the grievances.

A team of eight attorneys headed by State Public Defender Stanley C. Van Ness planned to meet with prisoners this morning.

Under the agreement, the inmates were returned to their cells as fellow prisoners watched to ensure against possible reprisals.

The prisoners' demands included better medical care, better food, prompter parole hearings and an end to alleged racism by white officers.

Gov. William T. Cahill, who sought the release of the hostages without bloodshed, told newsmen, "I can't relate Attica to this situation. Each man that is confronted with the situation has to make the best decision under the circumstances."

In September, 43 persons died when armed troopers and corrections officers broke up a rebellion at Attica State Prison in upstate New York with gunfire and tear gas.

The Rahway hostages included U. Samuel Vukcevic, the prison superintendent. He was treated at Rahway Hospital for cuts, apparently caused by stab wounds, and injuries to the pelvis and spine.

Prisoners contended that Vukcevic, 43, was stabbed by a prison guard who pulled a switchblade knife when fighting began Wednesday night. The prisoners released a statement purportedly signed by the superintendent in which he said the inmates did not harm him and sought medical attention for him.

Two of the guards held hostage were hospitalized with injuries that included a possible fractured arm to one. Authorities said the injuries were not serious.

The prisoners originally took seven men hostage. One was released Wednesday, one Thursday afternoon, a third before newsmen were permitted to enter the prison, and the remaining four just before the meeting with newsmen ended.

The unwarmed, X-shaped prison houses 1,143 inmates, 75 per cent of them black, in its four wings. The rebellious prisoners seized control of two wings after a movie in the prison auditorium.

One prisoner, Clifton Brandon, said the rioting in the auditorium intensified when Vukcevic tried to take "a tough guy attitude" to restore order.

Early Thursday, a state police spokesman told an Associated Press newsmen that about 50 helmeted state police armed with shotguns were prepared to break up the riot and regain control by force.

Police later denied that there was even any decision to storm the two wings.

Assemblyman George Richardson, a black Democrat from nearby Essex County, said, however, that power at the prison was cut off in preparation for an attack but was later restored.

Fires, apparently fueled by mattresses and other debris, burned on and off during the day in the two captured wings.

January Release Expected on Audit

An audit report of Pettis County's finances over the past five years will be made public sometime in January, Bob James, state deputy auditor, told The Democrat-Capital Friday.

A team of state auditors who began auditing the county's financial books early last spring completed the work last Friday, according to Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson, county collector.

James said that all audits will go through "extensive review" in his office before a summary report is sent to the county clerk's office.

He added that depending on the availability of funds, a county audit will be made every two years instead of every five years as is the practice now.

Featuring Carpets by ...
Burlington Industries' Lees & Monticello

More for Less.....

If you are interested in more than cheaply priced, cheaply made carpets and are looking for carpets that are manufactured to high durability standards, made a little more attractive with extra emphasis on design and color, then Hobsons have your carpet. If you would enjoy shopping for carpet in a store that features professionally designed displays to make your selection easier, such as the 22 carpeted model rooms in our Clinton store, to the array of eight-foot vertical and horizontal carpeted displays in our Sedalia store, if you would enjoy shopping from a vast selection of Brand Name carpetings; and if you want the most competitive prices in the retail carpet business...then Hobsons is your store

$5⁹³

This densely tufted continuous filament nylon carpet by Milikan will last longer than many carpets costing must more. Only Hobsons have it!

Be Thankful — Regardless

By MAX ERKILETIAN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Approximately 350 persons of different denominations attended the "Union Service of Thanksgiving" Wednesday evening at the First Christian Church. The community service was sponsored by the Sedalia Pettis County Ministerial Association.

The Rev. Glen C. Nelson, pastor of Quinn Chapel A.M.E. Church, delivered a sermon on the need for "Living the Thankful Life." He asked the congregation to heed the teachings in 1 Thessalonians 5:18: "In everything give thanks."

Mr. Nelson said "... until one has learned the art of rejoicing when there is nothing in his immediate surroundings to make him happy; when he is beset by tribulation and disappointment; and until he has learned the secret of intercession, especially when his own needs are either overwhelming or well provided for, it is altogether unlikely that he can give thanks in everything."

He added, "We have assembled to give thanks to God for all he has given us," and reminded them "until one has learned the art of being thankful in suffering and understanding poverty ... it is hard to give thanks."

Nelson dwelt on the problem of giving thanks in the midst of adversity. He made references to the hymn, "Now Thank We All Our God," written during a widespread plague, and the Pilgrims Thanksgiving "held in dark days" as examples of "living the thankful life."

Nelson concluded by saying that the principal problem in living the good life was that one had to be "thankful the whole year through. Or, as the traditional prayer has it, 'not with our lips, but with our lives.'" For Thanksgiving is man's total daily life response to God's total, eternal grace.

The offering received at the service will be donated to the United Fund, Church School for the Retarded and the Sedalia Pettis County Ministerial Association.

'Mobilization' Program Set By Baptist

East Sedalia Baptist Church, 1019 East Fifth, will host a church training program called, "M" (Mobilization) Night at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

The program is being sponsored by the Harmony Baptist Association.

The guest speaker will be the Rev. Mx Morris, pastor of Red Bridge Baptist Church, Kansas City. He will speak on "Soul Winning, the Church's Mandate for the 20th Century."

A youth choir, with members drawn from churches in the Harmony association, will present special music under the direction of Mrs. Darrell Payne, Route 3.

The Rev. G. Cox, Lebanon, will be the featured speaker at revival services Nov. 28 through Dec. 5 at the Westside Assembly of God Church, 10th and State Fair Blvd. The services will begin at 7:30 p.m. each day daily, except Sunday's 10:35 a.m. and 7 p.m. services.

Columbian Will Preach Here

The Rev. Lewis Williams, pastor of Friendship Baptist Church, Columbia, will preach in the revival services Nov. 29 through Dec. 5 at the Northside New Hope Baptists Church, 402 West Henry.

The services will be held at 7:30 p.m. daily.

Moves To Sedalia

The Rev. Ross Carlton, who recently took over as pastor of Free Methodist Church, has moved to 1702 South Montgomery. His telephone number is 826-9557.

The Carltons used to live in Warrensburg where Mr. Carlton pastored a church before accepting the Sedalia pastorate.

Some Ministers Feel They Are Under Paid

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Most Protestant clergymen, particularly in the older categories, are satisfied in their profession. But they feel they're underpaid. And many are chaffing under parish pressures.

As in the Roman Catholic priesthood, an increasing number of them seem to be opting out.

These are among the findings of a variety of studies, surveys and symposiums conducted recently in an effort to gauge the mood and problems in the ministry.

Garrett Theological Seminary, a United Methodist institution in Evanston, Ill., made a survey of 4,472 alumni and found that most clergymen enjoy their work and have a sense of accomplishment about it.

But this attitude prevails more among older clergy than among the young.

Seventy per cent of those graduated in 1930s are "highly satisfied" in their work, while only 55 per cent of the graduates of the 1960s feel that way about it.

However, another survey of 4,984 clergymen in 21 denominations, made by the Society for the Advancement of Continuing Education for Ministers, found that 88 per cent of the total feel they are underpaid.

The median annual income for those polled was $8,037, including housing and other allowances.

Although they have to spend nearly as many years of study preparing for their profession as doctors or lawyers, they earn less than a third as much on the average.

Nevertheless, only 9 per cent of them said they were "dissatisfied with being in the ministry."

On the other hand, recent studies indicate the exodus from the ministry is increasing, both among Protestants and Roman Catholics.

The Rev. Dr. E.A. Vordery, of Atlanta, Ga., told a meeting of Southern Baptist home missions leaders in Ridgecrest, N.C., that estimates put the total leaving as high as 10,000 pastors and priests each year.

Among them are some of the best clergymen, he said, adding that common reasons for their departures include inadequate salaries, the general apathy of congregations and unreasonable pressures and expectations placed on them.

Many go into depression, he said, under pressures from denominational administrators, divergent expectations of members for making the church prosper and because of the inability to satisfy the often conflicting demands.

In the Roman Catholic Church, its bishops consider the loss of priests from their vocations as the most urgent problem in the Church, according to a survey by Gallagher Report, an authoritative business publication.

It found that 83 per cent of 31 bishops questioned regard the shrinkage of priestly vocations as the Church's No. 1 problem.

Services For Rabbi

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled today for Rabbi Abraham Pimontel, director the last 15 years of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation at the University of Missouri.

Rabbi Pimontel died at his Columbia home Thursday.

CHICKENS TO PRAYER

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Where chickens used to roost, Baptist college students now kneel to pray.

The 1971 graduating class at California Baptist College remodeled a small shed, which used to house bantam chickens, doves and rabbits, into a prayer chapel.

No Prosecution By Beating Victim

A Sedalia man found beaten in the parking lot at 206 East Main, was taken home at 11:50 p.m. Thursday by police after he refused to prosecute the persons he said were involved in the incident.
Police identified Ralph Taylor, 1917 South Lamine, after an anonymous caller said there had been a beating. Following questioning, Taylor said he had been beaten, but would not name his assailants or say if he was robbed.

Offensive Picks Up Momentum

SAIGON (AP) — A 25,000-man South Vietnamese offensive into eastern Cambodia picked up momentum in its fifth day today with a ranger thrust into the rubber plantation of Mimot. Only light contact was reported.
It marked the first time in six months that South Vietnamese forces had swept into Mimot, a key North Vietnamese staging area for thrusts toward Saigon. It is 25 miles southwest of Snuol, from which South Vietnamese forces were driven in May with more than 500 casualties.

Other government troops were poised along the border apparently ready for similar thrusts into Snuol itself.
It appeared that North Vietnamese forces from the 5th and 7th divisions, who normally operate around Mimot, had pulled back.

They had plenty of advance warning since the South Vietnamese announced two days ago that Mimot and Snuol would be targets of the offensive.
Despite the advance announcement, a senior South Vietnamese field commander declared: "We believe the North Vietnamese are trying to regroup and figure out what our targets are. We expect big fighting within the next five to seven days."

Field reports said that the entire offensive was being conducted with minimum U.S. helicopter support. There are no American helicopters flying South Vietnamese troops across the border, but they are flying reconnaissance and gunship support.
The U.S. Command in Saigon disclosed that in the past two days, American helicopters had flown 320 missions in eastern Cambodia in support of the South Vietnamese. A spokesman said most of these were gunship missions.

There has been no significant contact since the drive began last Monday. The South Vietnamese have moved slowly and cautiously and are now operating as deep as 30 miles from their border.
Associated Press correspondent J. T. Wolkertorfer reported from Krek that hundreds more South Vietnamese paratroopers poured across the border by road and helicopters.

Wolkertorfer said hundreds of reinforcements are at Krek and Thien Ngon, a giant base 15 miles to the south, and have not been committed yet.

He reported that the South Vietnamese are digging in for a protracted operation. A half dozen new fire bases and logistics bases are being built around Thien Ngon.

In Saigon, informants reported that North Vietnam has increased the movement of war materials southward by twofold in the opening of its dry season surge to supply its forces in Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam.

There were reports that the South Vietnamese also are planning raids into eastern Laos to back up U.S. bombers attempting to slow the movement of North Vietnamese war materials southward along the Ho Chi Minh trail.

Rhodesian Settlement Is Detailed

LONDON (AP) — New details of Britain's settlement with Rhodesia disclosed today that voting qualifications for Africans have been eased on some levels and toughened on others.

A white paper, published by the British government, also set forth a new declaration of rights designed to protect the liberties of Rhodesia's five million blacks as well as its 250,000 white citizens.

The declaration also outlaws slavery, forced labor, torture, "inhuman or degrading punishment," and racial discrimination.

A major purpose of the new settlement is to provide increased political representation for the African majority over a timescale that has not been defined.

For this purpose two voting registration rolls for Africans are envisaged, one increasing their present eligibility, and the other stiffening the present tests.

The qualifications for enrollment on what is called an "African higher roll" require that a voter must have an annual income of at least $2,520 during the two years preceding his claim for registration.

As an alternative he must own property worth at least $5,040.

A second generalized qualification for this roll is that the African must earn at least $1,680 a year or possess $3,360 worth of property if he has at least four years of secondary education.

This is a new arrangement intended in time to permit the blacks first to achieve equal parliamentary representation with the whites and later majority representation.

At present the Africans are on what is called a "lower roll," which entitles them to choose a limited number of representatives.

This is being replaced by a new system based on the country's 1961 constitution—the one the British regarded as legal before Prime Minister Ian Smith's government declared independence four years later.

The qualifications for enlistment on that lower roll have been increased by raising the financial requirements.

The declaration guarantees such rights as life, personal liberty, free expression and assembly, and protection from slavery, forced labor and inhuman treatment in general, as well as from deprivation of property, and from arbitrary entry or search.

Tough opposition seems certain to come from both labor party critics at home and Africans and Asians in the Commonwealth and United Nations.

Some commentators even forecast that the coming U.N. row raised the prospect of an attempt to impose sanctions on Britain, just as the United Nations imposed sanctions against the breakaway Rhodesian regime.

But the government, convinced that the deal is the best that can be won for Rhodesia's five million black Africans, is certain to push it ahead through Parliament.

Rhodesia declared itself independent Nov. 11, 1965, in defiance of British insistence that blacks must be brought to majority rule. All effective power was held by the 250,000 whites and the Rhodesian Front party headed by Prime Minister Ian Smith.

The new deal, worked out between Smith and Britain's foreign secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, holds out a distant prospect of African rule—but sets no date.

Some British officials believe it may be achieved within 20 years. Smith himself has said it won't happen in this century.

Douglas-Home, presenting his proposals to Parliament Thursday, insisted that they meet Britain's long standing demands for unimpeded progress toward African rule, with safeguards against racial discrimination and constitutional backsliding.

Rhodesia's 1969 constitution will be changed, he said, to increase African representation in Rhodesia's House of Assembly and to give more Africans the vote.

Voting rights for both blacks and whites will be linked to income and educational standards. Britain will pour in aid to help Africans meet the voting requirement.

Rhodesia's controversial land tenure act, which designates black and white areas, will be reviewed and, Britain hopes, modified. The act now reserves 44 million acres of Rhodesia's best land to whites and only 42 million to Africans.

Britain will continue to keep sanctions against Rhodesia until constitutional changes are made.

Douglas-Home made clear to Parliament that a main factor impelling him toward a deal was Rhodesia's recent drift toward an apartheid system on the South African model.

Will Hear Bid For Rezoning Of 120 Acres

Parkhurst Manufacturing Co., Inc., 2503 West Broadway, is seeking to rezone 120 acres of land east of the intersection of the Lexington branch of the Missouri-Pacific Railroad tracks and North Highway 65 from residential to industrial use.

Robert R. Parkhurst, executive vice-president of the firm, said the request for a change in zoning represents long-range future expansion plans by the company. Parkhurst said there is a possibility that the land might be used for another industrial park. He indicated that a lumber yard and a fence company is currently operating within the area.

Company officials will meet with the City Planning and Zoning Commission at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday during a public hearing on the request at City Hall. Parkhurst said the exact use for the land has not been determined.

Department Planning Dock Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said it will file suit today in 12 East and Gulf Coast port cities to force 45,000 striking dock workers to return to their jobs under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The department said the primary suit against the International Longshoremen's Union will be filed in a New York court. But, since employers refused to be considered as a single group, suits for an 80-day injunction against the strike will have to be sought in other port cities as well.

The other cities where suits are expected to be filed later today or on Saturday include Boston, Philadelphia, Alexandria, Va., Baltimore, Augusta, Miami, Mobile, Houston, Providence, R.I., Portland, Maine.

The name of the 12th city in which a suit will be filed was not immediately available.

The department acted on an order by President Nixon.

In a letter Thursday from the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., Nixon ordered Atty. Gen. John Mitchell to seek an injunction against the 57-day strike under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

"The necessary papers are being prepared," a Justice Department spokesman said following the White House announcement. "The civil division undoubtedly expected something like this. We will be ready to move tomorrow (Friday)."

Nixon acted after a special board of inquiry, reconvened at his request, reported there was little chance of a quick settlement between the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) and shipping industry representatives.

ILA headquarters spokesmen were not available for comment, but Ralph Massey, president of the South Atlantic and Gulf Coast ILA district expressed disappointment at the decision.

"It just postpones the thing for 80 days," Massey said.

Nixon invoked the Taft-Hartley Act Oct. 4 to end a three-month strike by the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union on the West Coast.

The board of inquiry which worked through the night Wednesday to assess the situation, concluded that the East and Gulf Coast negotiations had broken down over two "very sticky issues"—minimum pension guarantees and welfare contributions.

In addition to the longshoremen, the strike has idled 30,000 other union dock workers from Maine to Texas since Oct. 1.

Group Reschedules Regular Meeting

Next Thursday's meeting of the Sedalia Council on Aging has been rescheduled for 2 p.m. Dec. 8, it was reported Friday. The new date was set since Maj. Marjorie Weber of the Salvation Army is the Sedalia delegate to the White House Conference on Aging, which begins Sunday.

Maj. Weber is expected to present her report on the conference on the Dec. 8 date.

President Will Meet With Heath

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon and British Prime Minister Edward Heath will meet in Bermuda Dec. 20-21 for "full consultations" in advance of Nixon's planned trip next year to Peking and Moscow, the Western White House announced today.
This is the second mid-Atlantic summit meeting Nixon has scheduled for next month. The White House announced Wednesday the Chief Executive will fly to the Azores for talks there Dec. 13-14 with President Georges Pompidou of France.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the Bermuda meeting "has been arranged in accordance with the President's wish to have a series of meetings with allied leaders" prior to his visits to the two largest Communist countries.

It is believed Nixon is trying to work out arrangements for still another meeting in the near future with Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany.

Nixon will be accompanied to Bermuda by Secretary of State William Rogers, Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally and Henry A. Kissinger, the President's national security affairs adviser.

Nixon telephoned Heath Thursday. It was one of a series of presidential calls to political figures to extend Thanksgiving good wishes. Among those who received such calls were Lyndon B. Johnson and the governors of the two most-populous states.

In placing a transatlantic call to Edward Heath in London, Nixon had more to talk about than America's annual turkey-fest. Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the two discussed the India-Pakistan crisis and Nixon's plans to consult with allied officials before going to Peking and Moscow.

Holiday Death Toll Continues To Rise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's Thanksgiving traffic death toll reached 213 by 1 p.m. today.

Snow, drizzle or fog plagued motorists in scattered areas of the nation's midsection, but skies cleared in the Northeast following Thursday's traffic-snarling snowstorm.

The count of traffic deaths began at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday and will end at midnight Sunday.

half the bass string wires off one piano, looking for a loose section the owner thought was creating a 'tinny' humming in her instrument.

"After going through all that work," he continued, "I picked up a nearby wastebasket to move it out of my way. It turned out that a piece of paper in the bottom of that wastebasket was responsible for the strange noise, which was created through the piano's vibrations."

Reflecting the enthusiasm which has won the local chapter national distinction for two years, Young leaves the impression he could talk enjoyably about his work all day. But he keeps busy, too.

"I have to run down to Tan-Tan-A today (Friday) and tune a piano," he said. "Count Basie's playing there this weekend."

War Dead's Families Prefer Private Grave

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only about 9,000 of the more than 55,500 Vietnam war dead have been buried in national cemeteries.

Army officials say this is because most families of war dead prefer to bury them in hometown cemeteries, with the government defraying much of the cost.

Although national cemeteries are gradually running out of space, there still is room for the Vietnam dead. There were more than 244,000 unfilled gravesites as of the end of September.

Still, there are an estimated 28.5 million surviving veterans of this country's wars and peace time service. All who were discharged honorably are technically eligible for a final resting place in a national cemetery, as are their wives, husbands and minor children who might die.

But most of these veterans will have to be buried in private cemeteries, where part of the expense is borne by the government under allowances totaling up to $500.

While the nation's veteran population has grown because of the Korean and Vietnam wars, the government hasn't authorized a new national cemetery in more than 20 years.

As a result, 48 of the 98 national cemeteries run by the Army and the Interior Department have been virtually closed and another six will be filled up within five years. More than 1.2 million gravesites are occupied.

The Army said it has no estimate when all the unfilled grave spaces will be gone. But the record showing more than 113,000 burials since 1966 suggests it may take only another 10 years.

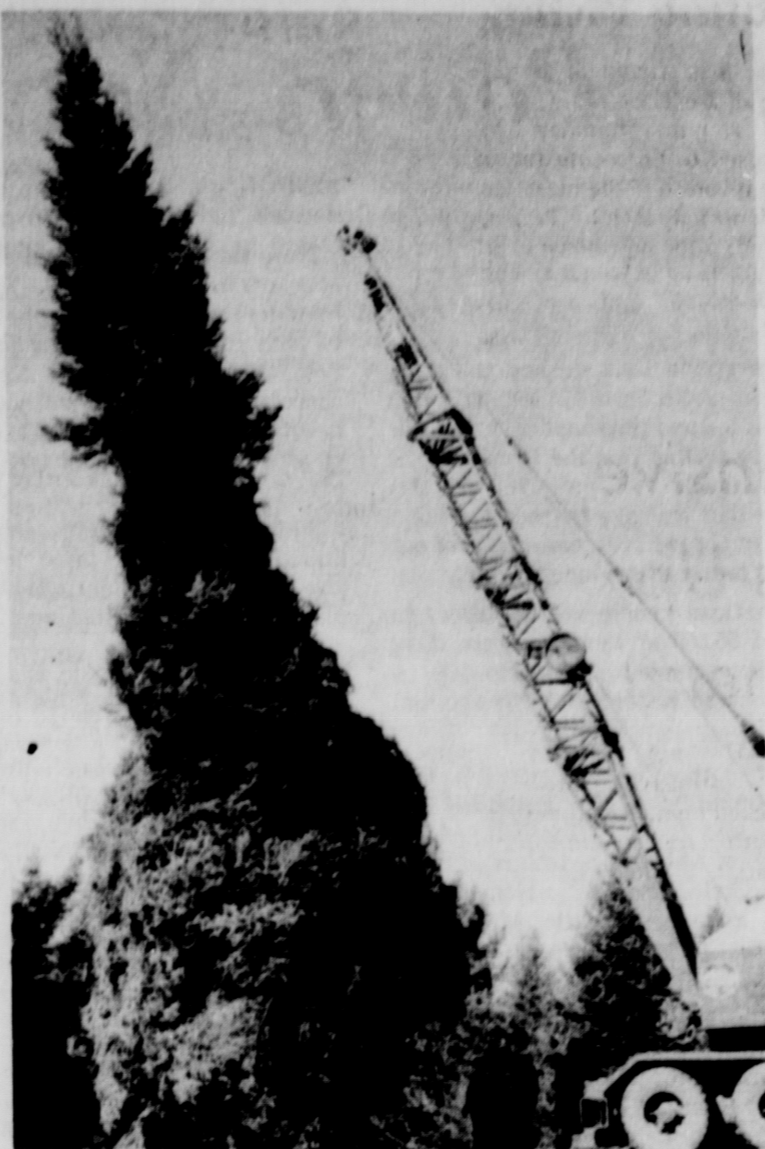

What then? Congressmen have filed between 30 and 40 bills calling for expansion of the national cemetery system, which grew out of the Civil War.

But these bills appear to have little chance, according to a key staff specialist on the House Veterans Committee. He told a reporter, "We can't build cemeteries in everybody's backyard."

In arguments before that committee, the Army has opposed either a general enlargement of piecemeal expansion of the system.

Instead of creating more national cemeteries or adding acreage to present ones, House Veterans Committee Chairman Olin Teague, D-Tex., is said to lean toward the idea of increasing burial allowances paid to survivors of both servicemen killed on active duty and of veterans.

Such increases would help meet rising costs of interment in private civilian cemeteries, committee aides said.

Farm Roundup

Farmers and Consumer Benefitted in October

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both farmers and consumers benefitted in October from a shrink in middleman costs of moving food from the land to dinner tables, the Agriculture Department announced today.

The cost of a "market basket" list of grocery items cost an annual rate of $1.245 for a typical family, down $6 from September. At the same time, the farmer's share of the total cost was $479, a gain of $8 during the month.

That left middlemen who process and transport food from the farm to retail shelves with an October margin of $766 or $14 less than the spread in September.

The food cost analysis was in a monthly report issued by the Economic Research Service in USDA. The "market basket" list includes only retail food items which originate on U.S. farms, thus excluding imported products and seafood.

Farmers gained most with a 1.7 per cent boost from the September market basket, while consumers paid 0.5 per cent less than a month earlier. The drop for middlemen was 1.8 per cent.

Officials said the decline in total market basket cost was attributed mainly to larger supplies of frying chickens, apples and citrus fruit. Prices increased for eggs and some vegetables.

Increased returns to farmers were mostly due to higher prices in October for hogs and some vegetables. Beef sold at retail for an average of about $1.05 per pound in October, down about eight-tenths of a cent from September. Of that, farmers received 67.6 cents; compared with 68.2 in September. Middlemen got 37.5 cents, down two-tenths of a cent.

Pork sold for 71.3 cents a pound, compared with 71 in September. Farmers averaged 34.7 cents as their share, compared with 32.9 a month earlier.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peanut growers have increased production sharply but consumer habits are not keeping pace, says the Agriculture Department.

During the 1960s production of edible peanuts rose from about 1.2 billion pounds a year to 1.6 billion, or about three per cent a year.

However, says the Economic Research Service, consumption last season was not changed much from the 1.5 billion pounds eaten the year before.

"Higher peanut prices and efforts by consumers to economize on their food expenditures probably were factors in the leveling of peanut consumption," the ERS said in a report.

Exports, however, have risen from less than 100 million pounds in the early 1960s to a record of 300 million last year. Canada is the largest customer, although Japan recently has been a big buyer.

Western Art Exhibit Here Next Tuesday

About 40 pieces of western and Indian art — oils, water colors, wood carvings and bronze works, will be on display Tuesday at Holiday Inn, Mrs. Jim Dayton, Western View Estates, told The Democrat-Capital.

The paintings, which are a collection of nearly 10 artists, include oils from the Dayton Art Gallery in Great Falls, Mont., operated by Mr. and Mrs. Dayton, who came to Sedalia a month ago.

Dayton is an employee of the Boeing Co. and works at area missile sites. "We started collecting art as a hobby and now it has grown into a business," Mrs. Dayton said.

The Daytons, who were Sedalia residents five years ago, plan to hold similar art shows in the future. The show Tuesday will be from 3 to 10 p.m.

Expecting Slayer's Arrival

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Merle Richard Sturdivan, 35-year-old confessed slayer from Aurora, Colo., is scheduled to arrive today at the Missouri Department of Correction in Jefferson City to begin serving a life sentence for murder.

Sturdivan was sentenced for the strangulation death of a Prairie Village, Kan., radiologist, Dr. Samuel B. Chapman. He also had confessed to the killing of seven other persons in Miami Beach, Atlanta, New Orleans, Houston, San Francisco and Tampa, Fla.

But assistant prosecuting attorney Joseph Y. DeCuyper, who argued the state's case against Sturdivan, said Sturdivan cannot be extradited by other states until he has been paroled or pardoned by the Missouri governor.

A motion for a new trial was denied Wednesday by Judge James S. Mooney of the Seventh Circuit Court. The motion had been filed by Sturdivan's court-appointed attorney, Robert G. Duncan.

Duncan said Thursday he has filed for a free transcript of the trial, which he said will be used in arguing a motion for a new trial before the Missouri Supreme Court.

President Nixon To Join In Eisenhower Dedication

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon joins celebrities and golfing friends of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower Saturday for ceremonies dedicating 140-bed hospital, the start of an Eisenhower Memorial Medical Center in the desert.

The privately funded $7.5 million hospital is located in the Palm Desert area, about 120 miles east of Los Angeles, where Eisenhower often came for winter golfing vacations.

Bob Hope—comedian, golfer, friend of the late president, and a prime mover in the hospital fund raising project—is master of ceremonies for Saturday's 11 a.m. dedication.

The President's widow, Mamie Eisenhower, will be among the participants. Nixon is the main speaker.

The guests include such celebrities as Vice President Agnew, Gen. Omar Bradley, Gov. Ronald Reagan and Hollywood stars who frequent the resort area.

The white concrete general hospital building was designed by architect Edward Durrell Stone. He also was the architect of the new Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, where the late president is memorialized with the Eisenhower Theater.

The hospital is the first facility on an 80-acre desert tract donated by Hope and his wife, Dolores, for a medical center that will include research and teaching services.

The hospital is due to open in mid-December, occupying one-third of the medical complex between Palm Springs and Palm Desert in the Coachella Valley. Next to be constructed is a $1.2 million professional office building scheduled for completion February 1972 to house medical offices, records and a medical library.

Because of the area's warm and dry climate, the center is expected to specialize in rheumatic and arthritic diseases and such chronic respiratory ailments as emphysema and allergies. However, center spokesmen say no firm decisions have been made yet.

Mrs. Eisenhower is honorary chairman of the project, which has been the pet of the Bob Hope Desert Classic, the golfing championship tournament that has donated 70 per cent of its net proceeds to the center for more than six years. Golfer Arnold Palmer turned over $280,000 to Mrs. Eisenhower from the 1971 golf classic earlier this month.

Mrs. Hope is its president, and James M. Taylor of Denver is executive director.

Eisenhower himself was consulted in the original planning. He was stricken with a heart attack in the area during a 1968 stay at the El Dorado Country Club in Palm Springs.

Among private donors to the hospital were Ike's friends from the area including U.S. ambassador to Great Britain Walter Annenberg and Pollard Simons of Dallas, a member of the hospital board, whom Mamie is visiting during her stay in nearby Indian Wells.

Big IRS Job in Phase II

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — What was it like for the Internal Revenue Service when President Nixon assigned it the job as answer man for his wage and price controls?

"It was like someone telling me to go in and quarterback the Baltimore Colts," said Hardy Root, an IRS public relations man in the Greensboro office.

Root was standing in the Centaphone complex of the IRS office where tax service representatives (TSRs) were answering hundreds of telephone calls over toll-free lines from North Carolinians who were confused about the controls.

A dozen TSR's on shift worked furiously to answer complex inquiries about a huge government program that no one with the IRS knew very much about a few weeks ago.

"It got to the point where we just had to tell them we didn't know the answer," said one of the TSR's, Lois McGee. "But we've been told not to do that anymore. We tell them we don't have a ruling on that yet."

Completing another answer to a caller, she turned in her chair and said, "There's just so much. It makes you feel kind of stupid when you can't answer their questions sometimes. You can hear them chuckling over the phone like they're saying, 'Well, what did you expect from the government?'"

She pushed a button for another incoming call.

"IRS, Mrs. McGee. Can I help you please? Uh-huh. Yes. I see. Were they in effect before Aug. 12? Sir, let me have someone from my technical branch call you back. I'm sorry. We'll try to get to you as soon as we can."

The technical division answers questions the TSR's can't handle. If the technical division can't answer them, they go to the regional office in Atlanta, and if they can't be handled there, they go to Washington.

"You might say this is like General Motors or some big corporation, though, going into operation with a program without its usual two years or so of planning," said Carroll Cooper, head of the Greensboro office.

The wage and price controls caught Cooper as much by surprise as it did the public because of the secrecy in which the program was developed, to insure no one could raise prices before the freeze started Aug. 15.

"We only found out a few days after the freeze that we would be handling it," he said. "Really, it's working pretty well." Cooper said, managing a weak smile, "considering the complications."

The 'Big Picture' For Bowl Football

FT. RILEY, Kan. (AP) — Personnel at Ft. Riley are scheduled to get "the big picture" of football bowl games during the coming New Year's weekend holiday.

Large-screen television projection systems have been ordered with VOLAR (Volunteer Army) funds for each of the four service clubs at the Army post. Each system has a screen measuring 9 by 12 feet.

The first shipment of the giant black and white screens are expected to arrive by Dec. 28. The screens, connected to the post's cable television system, will be programmed primarily for sporting and entertainment events.

Seaweed is a common name for multicellular marine algae, mostly green and brown in hue, and usually found near the water's surface. Red seaweed, however, is found at greater depths, between 100-200 feet, because its red pigment enables it to absorb the blue and violet light which penetrates those depths. The World Almanac notes.

Carl Rowan

Presidential Power, Not Meany, Is Issue

WASHINGTON — Far be it from me to defend George Meany against those Nixon administration charges that he is arrogant, rude, boorish — just a "mean, crotchety old man."

Rowan

The AFL-CIO president HAS been arrogant in the way he whipped organized labor into stubborn support of Johnson's and Nixon's war policies in Southeast Asia long after most of the nation was sending up anguished cries for an end to that tragic conflict.

The 77-year-old Meany WAS arrogant when he browbeat Congress into withholding funds for the International Labor Organization (ILO) — just because the ILO no longer was a Meany cold war tool.

So Meany's arrogance clashed with Richard Nixon's deviousness at the AFL-CIO convention in Florida last week, producing one of those flamboyant personality conflicts that always titillate the nation.

But we seriously misread the importance of the derisive laughter Mr. Nixon got in Florida if we view it as just a by-product of animus stirred up between a cantankerous old labor boss and a strong-willed President.

The convention snickers and the petty rudenesses reflected something that spreads far beyond the ranks of labor: it is the growing feeling that the Presidency is becoming much too powerful in this country — that we have reached the point where we ought to have a coronation of our Presidents rather than an inauguration.

The American people are not about to forget that 55,000 of their boys are dead and 302,000 wounded in Indochina — a result of Lyndon B. Johnson's Presidential decision.

Now, when the Congress passes a law setting limitations on spending in Indochina and calling for immediate withdrawal of American troops subject only to the release of GI prisoners, the President announces with Meany-like arrogance that he will ignore the mandate of Congress.

The people saw the national economy plunged into a mess — by Presidential decision and lack of presidential candor.

Now they see that economy placed in bureaucratic straitjackets — by the fiat of a President who swore he would never resort to such controls. Labor leaders note with rage that the President has, in effect, canceled contracts and pay raises that they negotiated months ago, and they argue that no President ought to have that kind of power.

Some businessmen, irritated by limitations on their price increases, are also saying that too much power has been placed within the White House.

Other Americans chafe at the spectacle of the President using his extraordinary powers to put through his publicly announced plan to reconstitute the Supreme Court into a conservative, strict-constructionist body. They see the forcing of a man like William Rehnquist onto the Court not only as a blow at the hopes of minorities and a frontal attack on the Bill of Rights, but as new evidence that Presidential power has encroached upon the independence and integrity of the judiciary.

The people note that Congress appropriates funds for what it believes to be vital domestic and social programs, but that Presidential power is exercised to impound those funds and abort the programs. They see the Presidential veto used to block appropriations for education, or for public service job programs designed to ease the deep malaise of unemployment.

Americans note that, more and more, Presidents tend to treat the radio and television networks as semi-personal vehicles of propaganda — at their beck and call whenever they wish to indulge in rhetoric designed to bail them out of trouble.

This accretion of Presidential power has been possible because of something called "respect for the office" of the Presidency. It is supposed to be close to sacrilege to be even mildly reproachful of a President, or noticeably doubtful of either his intellect or integrity, in any public confrontation with him.

Thus the cries of "lese-majeste" directed at Meany.

We of the press are partly responsible for this attitude, and thus for the dangerous and unwarranted tendency of our Presidents to think of themselves as kings in their moments of humility, and as gods otherwise.

We newsmen are too damned polite. Turn the cameras on a press conference and almost every newsmen present reminds himself consciously or subconsciously that he must not question the President so persistently that the viewing public might accuse him of "badgering" the President, or of showing "disrespect" for the office.

Perhaps every publisher and editor in the country ought to send out a memo saying: "Press the President to the wall on all issues of national importance. We will NEVER punish a reporter for forcing ANY public official to justify his actions, his remarks, his inaction."

This won't make George Meany a bit more lovable, but it would help to arrest growing notions of Presidential omnipotence and restore this society to that relatively safe era when governmental checks and balances meant something.

Senator Blackwell Has Easy Answers

State Sen. Earl Blackwell continues to press his suite with the voters in hopes of taking over the governor's chair in the 1972 election.

We have read Senator Blackwell's remarks as reported elsewhere, and even had the opportunity for a face-to-face discussion with the candidate recently, as printed in this newspaper.

All of which leads us to express some serious misgivings about the senator and his fitness for the office of governor.

There is no question that a large number of Missourians are disenchanted with their state government. Suspicions of waste, inefficiency and even corruption, tied closely to the system of patronage politics, are common.

Because of this feeling, there is a temptation to look for the kinds of simple answers that Senator Blackwell offers. But we should remember that demagoguery is defined as "oversimplification and single-minded pursuit of an inflammatory issue."

For Senator Blackwell, that issue is taxation. His charges of overtaxation and waste strike responsive chords in all of us. His opposition to "big government" is shared by many people, who feel overwhelmed by bureaucracy at times.

But the senator's solution to his first objection—a referendum on each tax increase proposal—would effectively paralyze the operation of state government, besides costing a great deal of money. And it also raises the question of exactly what our elected senators and representatives are supposed to do, and what powers they should have.

Certainly Senator Blackwell has a wide appeal to a great number of Missourians, but whether that support is sufficient to propel him to the governorship is an open — and disquieting — question.

Merry-Go-Round

Junketeering Title Goes to FAA Chief

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The most traveled man in government is Federal Aviation Administrator John Shaffer, who has done for the government junket what Colonel Sanders did for greasy chicken.

Shaffer insists it is his solemn duty to "monitor the national aviation system." He does this by flying around at public expense in a sleek Lockheed Jetstar.

Last year, Shaffer hit the wild blue yonder for a total of 100,000 miles, and he expects to top 150,000 miles this year. It must be the all-time record for taxpayer-funded travel by one man.

Of course, the FAA maintains ardently that not a minute of Shaffer's air time was logged in pursuit of pleasure. It was strictly business, the FAA says, that took him all over the world.

All over the world? "He has to carry out the responsibility of the FAA administrator," says an agency spokesman. "He has to monitor the national aviation system, which is really worldwide. We have facilities in Africa, the Middle East and so on."

Shaffer's "monitoring," however, involved a recent, hush-hush weekend trip to Orlando, Fla. He played golf with Arnold Palmer, and his family visited Disney World.

An FAA spokesman was asked what 18 holes with Palmer would contribute to Shaffer's wisdom. The official reply: "Palmer is an experienced pilot and uniquely qualified" to discuss aviation matters.

Footnote: While Shaffer is Washington's unquestioned sky king, the junket is no stranger to Capitol Hill. For instance, a gleaming Air Force plane recently rolled up to the terminal at Colorado Springs. Out stepped six members of the House Armed Services Committee. They had come, as guests of the Air Force, to the Air Force-Army football game. Even more lavish treatment was accorded Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., as befits his special status. He was furnished a private Air Force jet to fly to and from the game in solitary splendor.

Panama, where Sir Francis Drake and Sir Henry Morgan once trafficked in pirate gold, has now become "a conduit through which vast amounts of illicit drugs are funneled to the U.S."

This disquieting news is contained in a confidential report to Congress from the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. In undiplomatic language, the report suggests that "apathy, ignorance or collusion" in the Panamanian government may be to blame.

The blunt report, submitted by Narcotics Director John Ingersoll to Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., for the upcoming of his House Panama Canal subcommittee, states that "one-twelfth of the heroin and cocaine entering the U.S. comes through Panama."

This has made Panama "one of the most significant countries for the transshipment of narcotic drugs to the U.S." The report indicates that the illicit drugs are routed through Panama from South America, Europe, and even Asia.

Here's how the smugglers operate:

— From Panama's 100 airfields, light planes skip from country to country into the U.S. with cargoes of cocaine, heroin and hashish.

— The tiny country's two major ports and 10 minor harbors are havens for powerboats and trawlers which pack dope in hidden holds.

— Panama's 600 registered ships, all manned by foreign crews, offer possibilities for drug smuggling as varied as the world's multiple dialects.

Four seizures alone netted narcotics agents a hefty 641 pounds of heroin, enough to bring narcotic bliss to half the addicts in New York City. The report recalls, as another example, that "the son of a Panamanian ambassador and his bodyguard were arrested attempting to smuggle 156 pounds of heroin into John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York."

Concludes the report sharply: "Panama has not and is not paying sufficient attention to narcotics enforcement activities."

Footnote: To combat the flourishing Panama trade, U.S. diplomat Robert Sayre and Ingersoll met secretly with Panamanian officials. From these sessions, a new Panamanian narcotics team has been developed, and a swoop is planned upon the lush marijuana fields of Panama's Las Perlas islands.

Lobbyists for the Nixon administration swarm over Capitol Hill in flagrant disregard of the law. Before an important Senate vote, they often operate right out of Vice President Agnew's office a few steps from the Senate floor.

This puts them in a strategic location to buttonhole senators on their way to vote. More than a dozen administration lobbyists patrolled the Senate corridors and cloakrooms, for example, during the foreign aid debate.

Yet the law states explicitly that no appropriated funds may be used "to influence in any manner a Member of Congress, to favor or oppose, by vote or otherwise, any legislation or appropriation by Congress."

Any government employee who violates this law is supposed to be "removed from office or employment" and "fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both."

I had an enjoyable time in Kansas City Sunday and Monday, attending the annual convention of Missouri and Kansas Associated Press members.

Conventions, I have found, are of most value in the opportunity they offer for person-to-person contacts. The cross pollination of ideas exchanged between editors of various size newspapers can be very beneficial.

The speakers were excellent as well. On Sunday night we heard Jules Loh, one of the top AP feature writers, talk about his job and what he has learned from it over the years. Jules is a self-effacing personality, and called himself an "apprentice in a trade that will never have a master."

At Monday's luncheon, Roy Fisher, the new dean of the School of Journalism at the University of Missouri, gave a thoughtful talk on the trend toward "collectivism" in journalism and how the mass media is at the same time being challenged by the growth of smaller, special appeal publications.

"Society needs its special interest media," said Fisher, "but its survival depends on the maintenance of a responsible and independent mass media that can serve not just one interest group but all society."

Fisher is a veteran of Chicago's no-holds-barred variety of competitive newspapering, and edited the Chicago Daily News before moving to the groves of academe at Columbia last spring. He guided the Daily News to two Pulitzer Prizes and several Sigma Delta Chi awards during his tenure.

One reader has expressed her opinion that the annual picture parade of deer hunters and their trophies leaves her more sad than impressed.

I saw one in the Warsaw paper the other day that did the same for me. It pictured a hunter who not only had his buck, but had bagged a bobcat as well.

Why kill a bobcat? They can't be eaten and do not constitute a threat to man or his livestock.

For some reason the Conservation Department still declares open season on bobcats — and other fur-bearing animals such as red and gray foxes, raccoons, etc. — from Nov. 10 to Jan. 15.

The fur actually has little or no value, other than for a hunter to tack up on his wall for all to see and, supposedly, marvel at.

I talked to Jim Keller, a staff artist with the Conservation Department, who told me bobcats are not very plentiful in the state anymore. "They are a beautiful animal in the woods," Jim said.

That they are, and that's where they belong, rather than decorating some white hunter's wall.

When will the Truth-in-Packaging Law be applied to architectural renderings?

Every artist's sketch of a new building always has the structure set amid green meadows, trees and limitless horizons.

In reality, it's likely to end up wedged between a gas station and a hamburger stand, with a car wash to the rear.

To Give Furniture The 'Old Look'

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Clara wanted to know how to remove the shine from the furniture she refinished so it will have an old look. The following has been most helpful to me: I wait a day after the final coat of varnish is applied (Polly's note — Varnish must be thoroughly dry and my experience has shown that more than a day is usually required) and then rub the finish with powdered pumice or oil or water. (Polly's note — Crude oil is usually recommended when an oil is used.) If a satin finish is desired, rub with powdered rottenstone mixed with either oil or water. Both methods have given me good results. — SYBIL

DEAR POLLY — To give her newly varnished furniture an old look, Clara could rub it with very, very fine steel wool, then wax and buff it. I find it important to apply several coats of dull-finish varnish and use the steel wool between each of them. Be sure each coat is perfectly dry before using the steel wool. This adds even more to the desired patina. — GINNY

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Clara that a professional painter used the following method on my varnished woodwork and it was most satisfactory. Dip a piece of fine steel wool in linseed oil and rub lightly to remove the shine and have a satin finish. Thanks to everyone for the many helpful hints in the column. — L. B.

Two Persons Killed In Kansas Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas has recorded two traffic deaths thus far over the long Thanksgiving Holiday weekend.

The latest victim was Robert A. Marshall, 16, Overland Park, Kan., who died early today. He was injured Thursday night in a collision in Overland Park.

Audrey E. Fellers, 27, El Dorado, was killed shortly after midnight Wednesday in a one-car accident on the Kansas Turnpike just south of Wichita in Sedgewick County.

Three Fatalities Over Thanksgiving

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three fatalities were reported on Missouri streets and highways Thursday after the long Thanksgiving Holiday weekend traffic count began at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

The victims:

Mrs. Bessie Judd, 58, Romeo, Mich., killed in a one-car accident on U.S. 63 four miles north of Licking. The highway patrol said the car in which she was a passenger skidded on an icy bridge and overturned several times. Her husband, 74-year-old Byron Judd, was injured.

Roger Dale Williams, 18, Cole Camp, Mo., who died when his car slid into an embankment and overturned at a Cass County intersection just south of Kansas City.

Vivian Lee Carty, 15, Point Lookout, Mo., killed in a two-car crash on Missouri 7 about eight miles northwest of Clinton. The teen-ager was a passenger in a car driven by her mother.

Aiding Hand Is Granted To Aircraft

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The single engine aircraft was en route to Emporia but the pilot was diverted because of fog.

Then came word the Topeka airport also was closed.

Meanwhile, Dr. James E. Caldwell, an Osborne, Kan., dentist, his wife, Joyce, their son, Jimmy, 2, and a niece, Adrienne Caldwell, 15, of Tulsa, were en route in their aircraft for Thanksgiving in Kansas City.

Caldwell heard the radio exchanges between the unidentified pilot, a Chicago area man, and his family.

He heard the concern of the other pilot that he was running low on fuel and had to find a landing field soon.

Caldwell spotted the plane flying below him Wednesday night.

"When I started down after him I could see it—the Atchison airport—was open.

The two aircraft identified each other and Caldwell took up a position off his right wing-tip and "took him over to Atchison."

Sam McBride, operator of the airport, said the tanks of the little Chicago based aircraft had only a gallon-and-a-quart of fuel left when he filled it up.

Prostate Surgery May Be Solution

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My doctor has prescribed female hormones for an enlarged prostate gland. I have been on this medication about three years now. It has helped my ailment quite a lot, but it has reduced my sexual desire and has caused impotency.

Do you advise small doses of male hormones given carefully? Could it be my adrenal glands are not functioning? Is there any medication that would help my impotency?

Dear Reader — There is no doubt about the fact that female hormones will neutralize the effects of male hormones and will help in some cases of enlarged prostate. To be effective, though, the amount required will indeed cause impotency, and lack of sexual desire. Taking male hormones would simply defeat the purpose of the female hormones.

If all you have is simply enlargement of the prostate gland and not some other complication, then you very likely could have the problem corrected by surgery. That would mean you wouldn't have to take the female hormone any more. The enlarged prostate is simply bared out to make a larger passage way so normal urination can occur.

A high percentage of men who have had these operations can return to having normal sexual relations after they have recovered.

Since you are disturbed about your impotency, why don't you discuss the possibility of surgery with your doctor?

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would like your opinion on dogs living with infants (house dogs).

Is it harmful for a Yorkshire-Terrier, that has a continual lick, unless she is pushed aside, to be with a crawling, helpless baby?

Dear Reader — Probably not nearly so dangerous as exposure to other children. The truth is that animals often do not have the same diseases as humans and humans cannot catch most of the diseases animals have. This is why it is so difficult to study some human diseases in animals. Distemper, for example, in dogs has no counterpart in humans. Of course, there are a few exceptions, such as rabies from unvaccinated sick animals and cat scratch fever.

Depending upon the pet's habits the child may be exposed to some dirt and unsanitary elements that are more offensive to the sensibilities than to health. But from another child the baby can get common colds, an endless variety of contagious diseases and, not infrequently, pin worms. A child who never has the pin worms is often a child without friends. Humans don't get worms from dogs or cats.

A pet of the right kind can be a great source of joy for babies and children. The danger is usually to the pet, not the children. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Meany Is Resting Comfortably Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany, hospitalized Thursday after he suffered chest pains, was reported "resting comfortably" early today.

Dr. Marvin Fuchs, Meany's physician, said a preliminary diagnosis indicated the 77-year-old labor leader suffered "a possible spasm in the coronary arteries."

Fuchs said Meany suffered severe chest pains Wednesday night and early Thursday but that they had disappeared by the time he was admitted to the hospital.

Meany's pulse, heart beat and blood pressure all were normal when tested at the hospital, Fuchs said.

The physician said he ordered Meany to remain in the hospital for several days because the labor leader has been "under considerable stress."

Thanksgiving Day Massacre

Landry Leads Lions Past Kansas City, 32-21

DETROIT (AP) — Indian chiefs, according to legend, joined the Pilgrims in Massachusetts for the first Thanksgiving Day feast.

Thursday, Nov. 25 in Detroit, Mich., the Chiefs helped the Detroit Lions celebrate their annual Thanksgiving Day. And the Lions, led by a quarterback from Massachusetts, feasted on the Chiefs' mistakes to hang up a 32-21 National Football League victory over Kansas City before a capacity Tiger Stadium crowd of 54,418 and a national television audience.

Greg Landry, bothered earlier in the week with stomach flu, recovered in time to start at quarterback for Detroit and guide them to the victory—an essential one if the Lions are to remain in contention for a National Conference playoff berth.

Besides a fine showing by Landry, several other Lions were outstanding, among them: defensive end Larry Hand, tight end Charlie Sanders, running back Steve Owens, and wide receiver Earl McCullouch.

Despite the loss Hank Stram, Kansas City coach, said, "We're still in good shape for the playoffs."

The Chiefs are second behind Oakland in the American Conference West with a 7-3-1 record, while the Lions have the identical record and are second behind Minnesota in the NFC Central Division.

Last time KC gave up so many points was in 1968. Stram afterwards called the Lions "one of the most explosive teams in pro football."

Two games ago the Lions were on the brink of being eliminated from playoff consideration with a 5-3-1 record. Now they have won two consecutive contests with relatively weak Philadelphia coming to town for the next game.

Detroit, which must face Minnesota and San Francisco on the road its last two games, won its last five games in 1970 in a stirring comeback which thrust the Lions into the playoffs.

"This is only his fourth season," Coach Joe Schmidt said of Landry. "You can't develop a quarterback by putting him in, taking him out, putting him in, taking him out. You've got to let him play and develop his confidence."

In the previous game at Chicago, Landry, who has started every game, was replaced by Bill Munson after Landry developed a severe stomach ache. Munson guided Detroit to a 28-3 victory.

Landry completed 15 of 22 passes for 225 yards against the Chiefs, including touchdown strikes of five and 17 yards respectively to Sanders and McCullouch in the second and third quarters.

Landry added 45 yards rushing in six carries to give him 455 rushing yards for the season, setting a team season record for quarterbacks held by Bobby Layne and on the books since 1952. He needs only 69 more yards to set an NFL record owned since 1951 by Tobin Rote of the Green Bay Packers.

Owens, meanwhile, ran for 79 yards in 22 tries. The clock ran out with Detroit on the KC three-yard line, but had Owens run that last three yards he would have surpassed by one yard the single season team rushing record of 872 yards set by Nick Pietrosante in 1960.

Kansas City seemed as if it would have little trouble, driving with the opening kickoff from their 28 to the Lions nine. But Hand bulldozed in to block a 16-yard Jan Stenerud field goal attempt.

"That seemed to psych us up," Schmidt said.

On the next Lions series safety Johnny Robinson intercepted a Landry pass at the Chiefs 13 but Detroit's Wayne Rasmussen got the ball back by picking off a Lenny Dawson aerial and returning it 19 yards to the KC 21. Four plays later Mann opened the scoring with a 27-yard field goal. He added field goals of 28 and 21 yards in the third and fourth quarters.

Hand also helped Detroit to its first touchdown. Dick Evey jarred the ball loose from Dawson and Hand recovered at the Chiefs 38. Eight plays later, including a beautiful 33-yard pass catch by Sanders, Owens plunged over from the one.

The Chiefs narrowed the score to 10-7 when they drove 80 yards in 10 plays with the ensuing kickoff to score on a two-yard plunge by Ed Podolak with 2:17 left in the half. He also scored from five and six yards out in the third and fourth quarters, but not until the Lions had built a 29-7 lead.

Detroit drove 74 yards in the final 2:17 of the second quarter to score on Landry's pass to Sanders, who also made an unusual 21-yard catch in the march. He was lying on his back after leaping for a Landry pass. The ball bounced off Robinson and into Sanders' arms.

McCullouch's TD climaxed an eight-play, 62-yard drive with the second half opening kickoff. Moments later Detroit got two points when rookie Ron Jessie blocked Jerrell Wilson's punt and it rolled out of the end zone.

Next came Mann's 28-yarder before defensive end Wilbur Young snared a Landry pass at the Lions 15 and two plays later Podolak went over from the five.

Mann added a 21-yard field goal in the final period and Podolak's last TD ended a 61-yard drive with 5:39 remaining.

It was Detroit's 32nd Thanksgiving Day game and gave the Lions a 15-15-2 record in the annual holiday tussle.

Gettin' 'em the Hard Way

Nebraska's Jeff Kinney (35) gets knocked into the air by Oklahoma's Larry Roach for a gain of two yards during Nebraska's fourth-quarter scoring drive that netted the Cornhuskers a 35-31 win over the Sooners on Thanksgiving Day, in Norman, Okla. For the day, Kinney scored four touchdowns and 171 yards on 30 carries. (UPI)

Huskers Come Back for Win

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Nebraska beat Oklahoma ... at its own game.

Not only did the Cornhuskers defuse Oklahoma's volatile Wishbone attack, but they out-rushed the nation's best rushing team 297 yards to 279, and they did it on five fewer carries.

That was the story of Thursday's classic see-saw showdown, which wound up with top-ranked Nebraska's defending national champions turning back runner-up Oklahoma 35-31 on Jeff Kinney's fourth touchdown of the game, a two-yard thrust off left tackle with 1:38 left to play, capping a 74-yard, 5½-minute drive.

Nebraska's top rated defense, although it was stretched for 467 yards by the nation's most offensive-minded team, never snapped, and, in fact, took away the fuse that ignites the Sooner attack—the end sweeps by speedy Greg Pruitt.

Meanwhile, the Nebraska offense discovered the Oklahoma defenders were vulnerable to a power play off tackle and the Cornhuskers sent Kinney smashing for 154 yards in the second half.

"The only thing they took away from our offense was that we didn't break any 70-yards," said quarterback Jack Mildren, Oklahoma's star performer with 30 carries for 130 yards and two touchdowns and five of 10 passes for 137 yards and two more scores.

"They kept us from going wide with Pruitt."

"They just weren't giving us the pitchout," said Pruitt, who gained 53 yards on 10 carries, only twice running the feared pitchout-sweep that made him the most explosive running back in the country.

In effect, the only thing Nebraska took away from Oklahoma's offense was the sparkplug. It was enough.

Nebraska's defensive ends, Willie Harper and John Adkins, played wide to shut off Oklahoma's pitchouts.

"We knew they had to," said Coach Bob Devaney. "They were turning the play back into our other people. The way the defensive ends played the pitchout we copied from Missouri, which defended Oklahoma very well. We also copied some things that Southern Cal did well against them. We looked at eight or nine different game films and tried to incorporate the best of them."

"But we were very cautious to get our defensive ends wide enough. You might not have noted them as the ones doing the job, but they were. I talked to John McKay of Southern Cal and he said their defensive ends probably underestimated Oklahoma's speed. So we played it wider."

ter on the first of Kinney's four short touchdown plunges. That's when Oklahoma proved its own worth. Twice the Sooners battled back from an 11-point deficit. This time they went 80 yards, with Mildren scoring on a three-yard keeper, and they exploded 78 yards in only four plays and 46 seconds just before halftime to nose ahead 17-14.

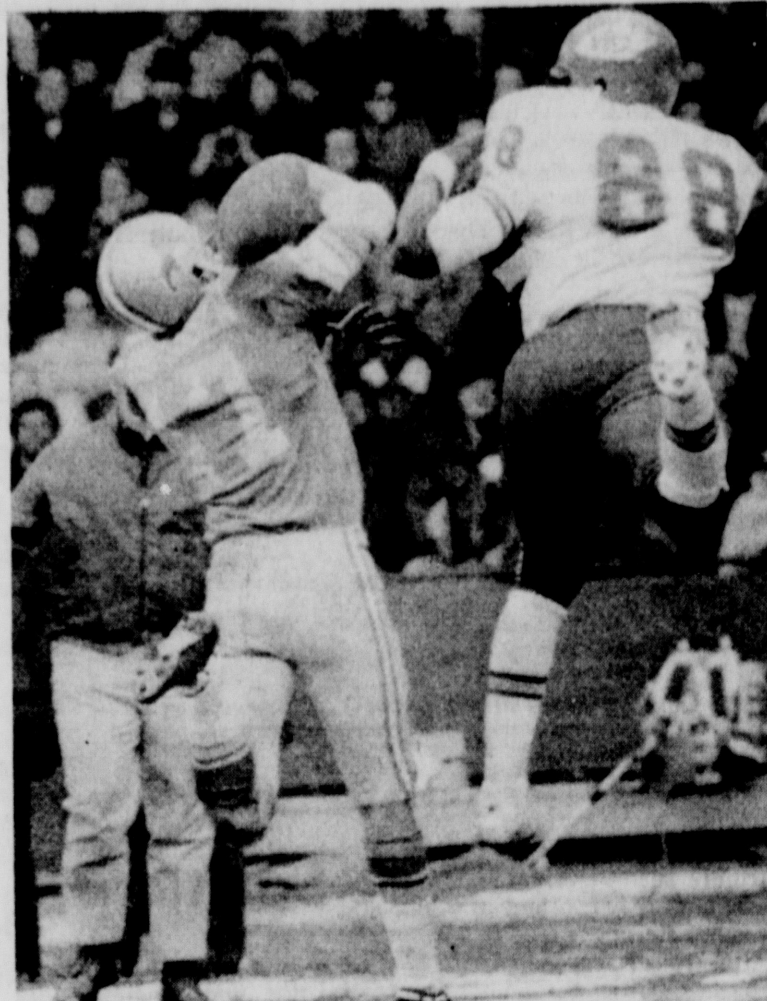

Behind for the first time in this 11-0 season, Nebraska wasn't about to be denied. Kinney capped drives of 53 and 62 yards with third-period touchdowns to make it 28-17. But again the Sooners tilted the roller coaster in their direction.

Mildren scored on a two-yard run at the end of a 73-yard strike that featured a 51-yard bomb from Jon Harrison, who grabbed Mildren's two touchdowns passes, to Albert Chandler and Mildren lofted a 17-yarder to Harrison with 7:10 remaining.

"Nebraska is a true champion," said Oklahoma's Chuck Fairbanks.

The nation's 1-2 teams took turns thrilling a sellout crowd of 61,826 and a national television audience.

Nebraska's Johnny Rodgers zipped 72 yards on a punt return with only 3½ minutes gone and, following a 30-yard field goal by Oklahoma's John Carroll, the Cornhuskers took a 14-3 lead early in the second quarter.

Intercepted

Kansas City tight end Morris Stroud (88) goes high on the Detroit three-yard line for a Len Dawson pass, but comes up empty handed as linebacker Wayne Rasmussen (47) grabs it off for an interception in the second quarter of action, Thursday, in Detroit. (UPI)

Hale Irwin Takes Lead In Heritage Tournament

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Lee Trevino had a 78 to his credit, including a big eight on a par-three hole, and was 10 strokes off the pace—but his head was up and the grin in place going into today's second round in the $110,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

"I'm not discouraged," the irrepressible Trevino said. "It's the kind of course where you can make up ground fast."

Trevino matched his worst round of the year in his watery effort over the demanding Harbour Town Golf links—hitting four in the water—and trailed first round leader Hale Irwin by 10 strokes.

Irwin, a longshot who hasn't led before this season and has yet to win in four years on the pro tour, fired a solid, three-under-par 68 on the seaside, 6,655-yard layout and took sole control of the top spot when Arnold Palmer bogeyed the final hole.

"I'm generally pretty well satisfied and played reasonably well," said Palmer, who is enjoying one of his better seasons at the age of 42. "But it made me mad as hell to bogey that last hole."

He was tied with Dave Eichelberger, a 28-year-old Texan who has come into his own this season after a five-year struggle. Each had a 69.

Bob Smith and Rod Curl followed at 70 and were the only other players able to break par on the testing, treacherous layout.

Jack Nicklaus, some $20,000 back of Trevino in the race for leading money winning honors, was one of a half dozen at 71.

Nicklaus made the turn two over par, then reeled off four birds in a six hole stretch starting the back nine, only to falter.

Irwin matched one three-putt bogey with a birdie four on the front side, then closed strongly.

He hit a sand wedge to six feet for a birdie on the 12th hole, made it from 15 feet on the par five 15th and punched a seven iron to within four feet for another bird on the 16th. He missed from 12 feet for still another birdie on the last hole.

Palmer, winner of four tournaments this year, had it three under par and was tied for the top spot until he hit a one-iron second shot into a hazard on the 45th yard final hole, blasted out and two-putted from 25 feet for a bogey.

Trevino, who has won a record $227,243 this season and already named the PGA's player of the year, made the turn in par figures, but ran into disaster on the 152 yard 15th. He bounced his first two shots off trees and into the water, finally got on in six and two-putted.

The New York Rangers have qualified for the Stanley Cup playoffs in each of the last five seasons.

S-C Soccer Season Will Begin Dec. 4

Armin Ciersdorf, soccer coach at Smith-Cotton High School, has announced the schedule for the upcoming season. The opening action for the Tigers will be Dec. 4, when the schools compete in the Metro Seven Soccer League meet in a round robin tournament in Kansas City's Swope Park.

S-C will be competing as a member of the Metro Seven Soccer League. In addition to the Bengals' soccer squad, Kansas City schools Bishop Hogan, Rockhurst and Pembroke Country Day, along with Ward and Bishop Miege of Kansas City, Kan., and Savior of the World in Bonner Springs, Kan., make up the Metro Seven League.

Each member of the league will meet the opposing members one time prior to Jan. 15, 1972.

The teams will play a second round of games between Jan. 20 and Feb. 19.

The team with the best record in the first round will meet the team with the top record in the second round to determine the league champion.

One of the highlights of this year's schedule will be the Smith-Cotton Invitational Tournament. In addition to S-C, Ward, Rockhurst and Pattonville, Mo., High Schools will compete.

Dallas Tightens Grasp on Lead

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Dallas Cowboys have tightened their grasp on the National Conference East lead and, by doing so, have thrown the West into an even wilder three-way scramble.

The Cowboys beat Los Angeles 28-21 in one of Thursday's National Football League games—Detroit topped Kansas City 32-21 in the other—to open a one-game edge over Washington in the NFC East.

That also sent the Rams skidding back into a virtual deadlock with San Francisco in the West—and Atlanta is only half a game behind the front-runners.

The 49ers can take sole possession of first with a victory over the New York Jets Sunday and the Falcons can stay in the race by turning back Minnesota.

Sunday's other games have Washington at Philadelphia, St. Louis at the New York Giants, New Orleans against Green Bay at Milwaukee, New England at Buffalo, San Diego at Cincinnati, Denver at Pittsburgh, Cleveland at Houston and Baltimore at Oakland. On Monday night, Chicago visits Miami.

"I feel sore but happy," Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach said after scrambling for 33 yards and passing for 176 more. "We won it and it was a big win."

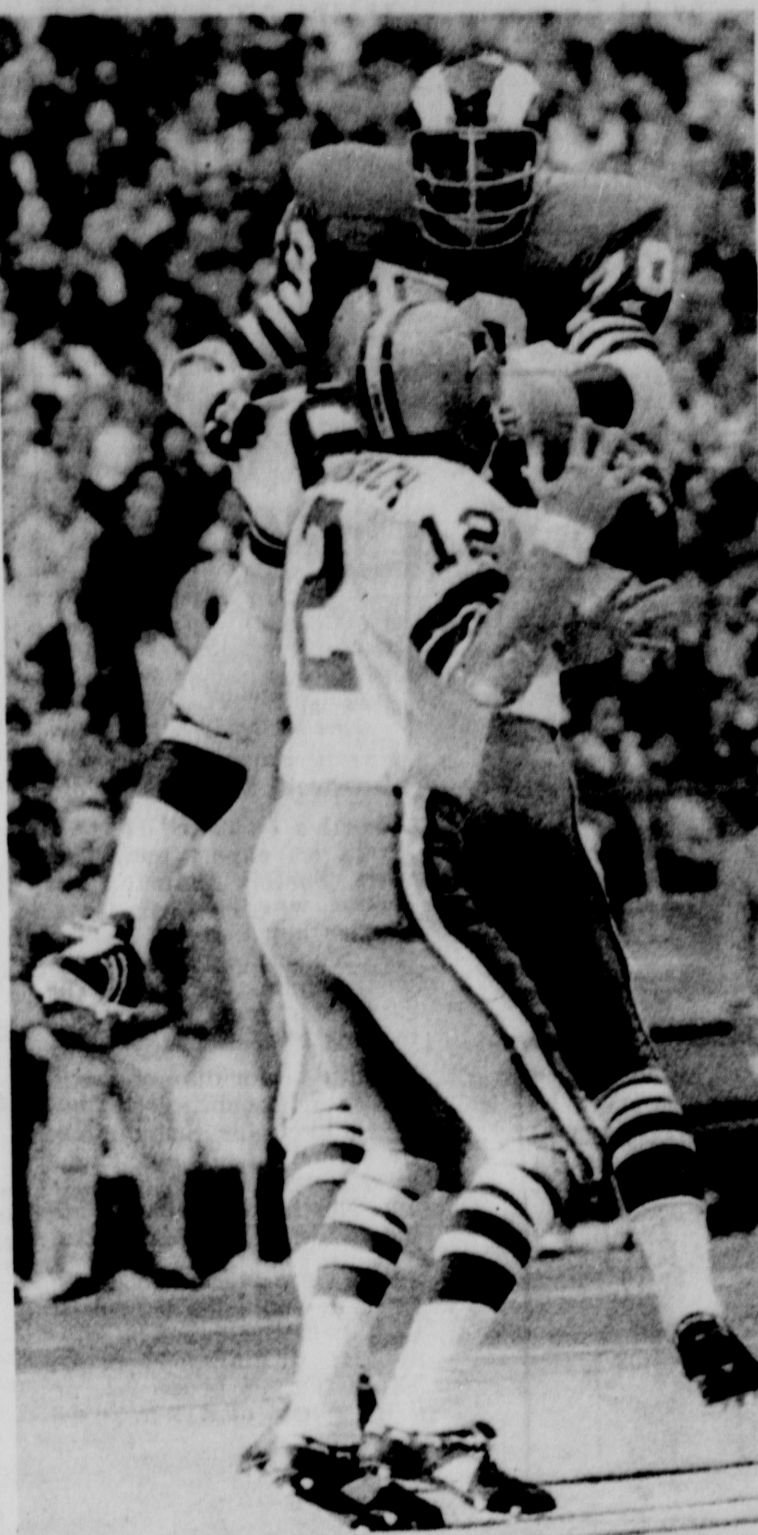

"I wasn't anxious to run a lot, though," he said. "I wasn't looking for any holes to run through." His 11-yard fourth-quarter scamper set up Duane Thomas' game-winning five-yard touchdown run.

Staubach also rifled touchdown passes of 51 yards to Bob Hayes and 21 to Lance Alworth and Isaac Thomas steamed 89 yards with a kickoff return for the Cowboys' other scores.

Roman Gabriel, the Rams' quarterback who struck for touchdown passes of 33 yards to Bob Klein and two yards to Pat Curran, passed for 234 yards but suffered an injury. "It's my normal artificial turf knee," he sighed. "I'm three-for-three on it—two hurt knees and a concussion."

The Rams held a 14-7 lead heading toward halftime but, instead of increasing it, they blew it when a fake field goal backfired.

"I've hit that play a million times in practice," said holder Jerry Rhyme, who overthrew an open receiver. On the next play Staubach unleashed his scoring bomb to Hayes.

Heisman To Pat Sullivan

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—"Congratulations Pat Sullivan."

Those words were strung up on a theater marquee in this small campus town, and though the students were away for Thanksgiving holidays, the theater's tribute seemed to catch the prevailing mood. Auburn had become Heisman Trophy Town after the Tigers' senior quarterback, Patrick Joseph Sullivan, was awarded the 1971 crown Thursday night.

Sullivan had been sequestered in a town motel to await the announcement, which came from the Downtown Athletic Club of New York City during halftime ceremonies of the nationally televised Georgia-Georgia Tech game.

The 21-year-old native of Birmingham, Ala., said he was dazed when he heard his name called, but that he was in better shape when Head Coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan drove over to the motel to pay him a compliment.

"He was just real happy," Sullivan said of his coach, who is in his 21st year at the helm of the Sugar Bowl-bound Tigers.

Jordan, for the most part, turned the spotlight over to the quarterback who has guided Auburn to 26 victories in 31 games over the past three years. But he did say: "Speaking for the staff and the team, we're extremely proud of Pat Sullivan's winning the Heisman trophy."

"We think he deserved it because he's had three outstanding and consistent years. The Downtown Athletic Club of New York City has done him a great honor. They certainly picked a most deserving winner in Pat Sullivan."

Sullivan was also paid a complimentary call by his friend, Johnny Musso, whose unbeaten Alabama team collides with the undefeated Tigers in Birmingham Saturday. Sullivan said Musso, who was fourth in Heisman balloting, was happy that he got the award.

Ed Marinaro of Cornell finished second in the balloting. Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma was third, followed by Musso of Alabama and Lydell Mitchell of Penn State.

Bruins Close In

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Bruins are riding a seven-game winning streak, longest of the National Hockey League season, and a couple of old pros, goalies Eddie Johnston and Gerry Cheevers, are taking bows.

Johnston, 35, and Cheevers, a week shy of his 31st birthday, are taking turns sharing honors as the Bruins bid for first place in the East Division with a fabulous surge.

The Bruins moved past Montreal into second place, just one point behind the New York Rangers, by edging the stubborn Philadelphia Flyers 4-2 Thursday night in the only NHL action.

Phil Esposito collected two assists for Boston, hiking his league scoring lead to 37 points. Teammate Bobby Orr contributed a tie-breaking third period goal and earned assists on the three other tallies, boosting his point production to 36.

However, everyone credited Johnston for the victory, just as they did Cheevers for the Bruins' 2-1 decision over the Flyers in Philadelphia Wednesday night.

"We were very lucky to win this game," Boston Coach Tom Johnston admitted after the holiday triumph. "Philadelphia actually outplayed us. The difference was we got great goaltending. We were fortunate at times. They could have had some goals, but Eddie came through for us."

Johnston was spectacular on many of his 29 saves, including several key stops after Orr had put Boston ahead 3-2 on an unassisted goal at 11:25 of the third period. Philadelphia applied the pressure until Wayne Cashman added an insurance goal into an open net with 19 seconds remaining.

"Great goal-tending, just great," Johnston repeated. "It was great both nights, and we had to have it to win. Eddie J. and Cheesy got us four big points."

In their winning streak, the Bruins, who set a NHL record of 399 points last season, have scored 35 goals. Johnston and Cheevers have allowed just 10 in the stretch.

The Bruins also have been coming on strong in the third period, scoring 16 goals in the finale of the seven games. Opponents have managed just two third-period goals, both by Philadelphia.

Orange Bowl May Decide Champion

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Will there be a national college football championship game on New Year's Day?

If so, it will take place in Miami on the night of Jan. 1, when Nebraska and Alabama clash in the Orange Bowl.

Nebraska maintained its position on top of the heap by defeating second-ranked Oklahoma 35-31 Thursday. Fullback Jeff Kinney, who scored four touchdowns for the Cornhuskers, climaxed a 74-yard march in the closing moments of the fourth quarter with a two-yard touchdown plunge to give unbeaten Nebraska its 11th victory of the season.

Alabama, 10-0 and ranked third, could move up a notch Saturday. But the Crimson Tide has to get past fifth-ranked Auburn, and its Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback Pat Sullivan, in their battle at Birmingham, Ala.

In Thursday's other big games, No. 12 Texas 8-2, clinched the Southwest Conference championship and a berth in the Cotton Bowl against Penn State by scoring four first half touchdowns and going on to defeat Texas A&M 34-14.

Mississippi, 9-2, ranked 18th and head for the Peach Bowl against Georgia Tech, exploded for six touchdowns in the second period—three of them scored on runs by tailback Gregg Ainsworth—and whipped Mississippi State 48-0.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Texas' 34-14 Thanksgiving Day victory over the Texas Aggies gave the Horns an unprecedented fourth straight Southwest Conference football championship but it marked the end of an era for the Aggies.

Several hours after the Longhorns had rolled over A&M, the A&M board of directors announced that Athletic Director and head football coach Gene Stallings would be relieved of all his responsibilities effective Dec. 1.

Marvin Tate, associate athletic director, was named acting athletic director.

In seven years, Stallings compiled a 27-45-1 record. He took the Aggies to the Southwest Conference championship in 1967 and a 20-16 Cotton Bowl victory over Alabama. It was the Aggies' only winning season under Stallings.

North's four-club call shows an expert gadget at work. South's jump to three spades was a game force. North's four-club bid showed the ace of clubs and suggested slam. North had the cards to warrant it—18 points in aces and kings.

South's four-diamond call was a trifle optimistic, but South liked his distribution. He signed off at four spades after North cue bid in hearts but North simply went to the spade slam.

The slam was a good one since it would be a cinch if East held the queen of diamonds; if diamonds broke 3-3; if trumps broke 2-2; or if the queen of diamonds would drop doubleton. South looked over dummy and remarked, "I would hate to lose this contract. There must be a safe line of play." We will leave it to you readers to decide if South proceeded to adopt the safest line.

He won the heart, cashed one of his high spades and dummy's ace-king of clubs to get rid of his losing heart.

Then he led a low diamond and finessed his jack. West took the queen and led a second heart. South ruffed, cashed a second high trump, led a diamond to the ace, a diamond back to his king, ruffed his last diamond and claimed the slam.

Diplomats Disenchanted With New York City

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A growing number of U.N. diplomats say they have just about had it with New York City and are hinting at a move.

They want no more of sniper shootings, protest demonstrations, sugar in gas tanks, rude policemen and other woes common to the city.

A delegate from Ceylon, Christopher W. Pinto, said U.N. delegates are subject to "an extraordinary form of censorship" in New York.

"It tells them: Let your views meet with the approval of all shades of the city's opinion or suffer at the hands of the particular group you have offended."

"New York is supposed to be a swinging, permissive city," said Pinto, "but where is this permissiveness when it comes to giving expression to the views of the countries represented here?"

Behind the complaints is the hint of a threat to move the world organization to another country.

The threat is nothing new, but it is being said now by more delegates and in louder voices. Representatives of countries as different as Spain and Mongolia are demanding that the U.S. government do something to improve the diplomatic lot.

The Soviet Union, a leading target of some of New York's less hospitable elements, is making a bargaining point of recent reports that the city receives large financial benefits from the U.N. presence.

The Russians, angered by a sniper attack on their mission last month, had the question of security added to the agenda of the General Assembly.

Consideration of the item in the assembly's legal committee has unleashed a torrent of speeches on the injustices of New York.

Besides the robberies, burglaries, flag rippings and demonstrations, delegates complain that New York policemen are not properly instructed on how to treat foreign diplomats.

Many also think the confusing division of authority in the United States is nonsense. It forces diplomats to deal with City Hall and the police and fire departments while they think the federal government, through the U.S. mission here, should take care of all matters pertaining to U.N. delegates.

U.S. Ambassador George Bush told the delegates that he hopes for congressional action on a State Department proposal to extend federal protection to foreign U.N. diplomats and officials. The New York Police Department now has that responsibility.

But to the Russians the answer is clear: The United States doesn't need more laws, just more enforcement.

They were infuriated by the recent release on bail of a youth held in connection with the sniper attack on the Soviet mission. They say it was another example of the policy of U.S. authorities to "turn a blind eye" to such acts.

Many delegates also would like "high Washington officials," who they did not name, to stop criticizing the United Nations. And they want American news media to tone down coverage of criminals and radical groups.

Both the officials and the press, it is contended, encourage unruly people to act against foreign diplomats.

Instead, say the delegates, politicians should say nice things about the United Nations, and the press, radio and television should launch an education campaign to change American attitudes.

Only a few countries—mostly Western—have avoided heavy criticism of the United States in the debate.

Success Probed By CBS

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS injected a disturbing note on a Thanksgiving holiday largely devoted to feasting and relaxation.

At the end of the evening Thursday it broadcast a remarkable documentary that took direct, deadly aim at the old-fashioned American dream of success.

Books and articles have been written that are highly critical of the quality of life in the affluent suburbs, the executive dormitories surrounding the nation's big cities. "CBS Report's" treatment had members of one family talking about their day-by-day existence, their fears and their hopes. It was a devastating hour.

Sam Greenawalt, a bank executive in his early 40s, told of working 10-and 12-hour days under pressures that literally sweated his brow. His wife, Jane, caught up in a whirl of volunteer activities, earnestly analyzed her personal search for identity.

Despite a big, handsome house, the family felt a vital need for their remote weekend place where they found real relaxation and functioned as a family.

The program was concerned specifically with life in Birmingham, Mich., a rich, white community 16 miles from Detroit. It told the story of Birmingham in terms of the Greenawalts and their three children ages of 14, 12 and 10.

Says World Politics Favorable For Revolt

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Fidel Castro says the world political situation has become highly favorable for left-wing revolution. But he seeks takeover by force only as a last resort.

"The United States has reached a low point in its international prestige," Castro told members of left-wing Chilean parties Thursday night in Santiago's Municipal Theater.

The Cuban prime minister has been in Chile for more than two weeks—his first trip to another Latin American country since 1959, the year he came to power.

At the time of the Cuban revolution the world balance between socialism and imperialism was about even, Castro said, demonstrating with his hands.

"Now it's like this," he continued, raising one hand higher. "It has changed in favor of revolutionary movements."

Hoarse and tired after a heavy schedule of appearances, Castro termed the election of Marxist-Socialist Salvador Allende as president of Chile "a really unique achievement in history."

There never was any contradiction between achieving socialism through free elections and by doing so through Cuban-style armed conquest, Castro said. He added that Latin American revolutionary movements should use force "only when all other means are blocked."

"At first we didn't think the Chileans could do it," he added. But after several left-wing parties rallied behind Allende for the campaign, "we saw there was a possibility."

Castro warned that "imperialists" and "reactionaries" will do everything possible "to make the Chilean way fail, to stop this Chilean success."

"This is a decisive time for Chile. Chileans must use their intelligence to defend their experiment," he said.

Castro's speech was timely political medicine for Allende, his close friend, whose Popular Unity governing coalition has shown recent signs of internal struggles.

Earlier on Thursday, Castro told a group of newsmen at an outdoor lunch that the United States and Cuba could become friends again "when the U.S. has a government that really represents the philosophy of peace."

"Nixon doesn't," he contended. "Nixon is not a progressive. The most that can be said of him is that he is a political realist who wants to get re-elected."

Survey Shows Young Attitudes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey of high school student leaders indicates the young people are substituting booze for pot, like Democrats and think mom and pop are on target with discipline.

As for premarital sexual experience, it was maybe yes, maybe no, with 35 per cent of the respondents saying absolutely no, 15 per cent ducking the question and 50 per cent saying yes under a variety of conditions.

The survey, conducted for the Merit Publishing Co., Northfield, Ill., consisted of 23,000 replies from students in 18,000 of the nation's 23,000 public, private and parochial high schools. The publishing company said that the replies were not a reflection of today's average student but of "opinions of student leaders and high-achievers."

Ninety-six per cent of the students surveyed go on to college and nearly 96 per cent have better than a B-grade average.

Landing on the moon, the 18-year-old vote and the attack on pollution were three things students were proud of, and their top priorities included ending the Southeast Asian war, eliminating pollution and the continuing war on poverty.

Politically, 76 per cent of the young leaders said they believed political change could be brought about within the established system.

In several sample ballots, pitting President Nixon against Senators Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., George McGovern, D-S.D., and Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, the President beat only Humphrey 44 per cent to 38 per cent. Muskie scored highest over the President 57 per cent to 28 per cent. Although well over 90 per cent said they had never used the hard drugs and 76 per cent had not used marijuana, 76 per cent said all the drugs were readily available.

Alcohol gets more attention from this student segment, the survey showed. Only 34 per cent of the students said they never drank beer, 26 per cent hadn't tried wine and 39 per cent had shunned hard liquor. Usage of all three ranged from once or twice to daily, although there were no daily hard liquor drinkers.

Parents generally got passing grades.

Do parents understand your generation's problems? Thirty-one per cent said always and 51 per cent said at least half the time. Nearly half said communication lines were open all the time with their parents and 36 per cent said at least half the time.

Only three per cent failed to answer the question on home discipline. The vote went this way: about right, 80 per cent; too lenient, 5 per cent and too strict, 12 per cent.

HASTE AIDS WASTE

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Employees at the city sewage treatment plant soon will be zipping around on electric golf carts.

The Works Board voted to buy the carts so workers could move around the plant easier. John Sweazy, departure director, said his men had to use pickup trucks or walk in the past.

Warns of Escalation

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has sent a message to President Nixon warning that any American surface-to-surface missiles sent to Israel would be a "very serious escalation" of the Middle East conflict, a Cairo newspaper reported Friday. It said the White House is considering supplying the Lance missile, shown here, to Israel. (UPI)

Ann Landers

Mom Uses Child As A Target For Anger

Dear Ann Landers: Everybody sees himself in your column, sooner or later. I saw myself a few days ago. It was the letter from the girl whose mother yelled at her constantly over nothing. I get chewed out by my mom regularly. I realize she is not really mad at me but she has to take out her anger somehow and I'm the handiest target. No matter how hard I try to stay out of her way she finds something to holler about.

Her pattern of yelling is always the same. It starts out over nothing and builds. The more she yells the madder she gets. Pretty soon she is screaming about a completely different subject than the one she started on.

Please tell me what I can do about it. I have another two years to go before I can get out of the house and go to college. — Battered Ear Drums

Dear Battered: A person who understands a problem has it half solved, and it is obvious that you DO understand. There is no way you can change your mother. She needs professional help. You can, however, protect yourself by listening quietly and remembering that her rage has nothing to do with you — that she is really angry with herself. Make no attempt to reason with her when she's off on a screamer. She's not rational. And if it will make you feel better, dear, you have lots of company.

Dear Ann Landers: I work on a newspaper and have written heads and subheads for your column for many years, so I've read every word you've written for a long time. Today I see another letter from someone who is upset because someone SAID the wrong thing. Bereaved mourners are unhappy because of a thoughtless comment. An adoptive dad is distraught because someone made a snide crack. A mother with a homely child is miserable because a friend made a hurtful remark.

Even the kindest and most considerate people are frequently surprised when a thought that seemed all right in the head, comes out of the mouth in a cloddish manner. It happens all the time. So why should anyone allow himself to become totally fragmented by an insignificant, ill-phrased statement that wasn't intended to hurt?

Most folks are decent. The malicious and mean devils are definitely in the minority. Wouldn't it be a happier world if we didn't attach so much importance to what people say? I hope you will print this, Ann, and I hope I said it right. — I Understand

Dear Understand: You did and I thank you.

Texans Are Killed In Airplane Crash

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP) — Four persons from Texas were killed Wednesday night and a fifth was critically injured in the crash of a single-engine airplane near this south-west Kansas community.

The wreckage was found Thursday morning by hunters.

The Kansas Highway Patrol identified the victims as Michael F. Klos, 28, the pilot; his wife, Mrs. Mary Klos, 24; their 5-year-old daughter, Pam, all of Grapevine, and Mrs. Edith Klos, 27, Fort Worth, the pilot's sister-in-law.

The brother of the pilot, Larry Klos, 24, Fort Worth, was reported in critical condition at a Garden City hospital.

The highway patrol said the Beechcraft Bonanza apparently crashed in heavy fog about nine miles east of Garden City.

Lighting Will Show Fund Goal

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lights to measure the progress of a Christmas fund drive for the needy in St. Louis and to guide visitors to a life-sized nativity scene at a religious shrine near Belleville, Ill., were to be turned on today.

Ten of the 1,150 electric bulbs on the Salvation Army's "Tree of Lights" in downtown St. Louis were to be turned on in a noontime ceremony.

And a mile-long "Way of Lights" composed of more than 100,000 twinkling electric bulbs, was to be turned on at The Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows.

Each $100 in contributions lights one bulb on the Tree of Lights. This year's goal is $115,000 to pay for toys, Christmas dinners and other assistance to the needy.

Last year, the Salvation Army collected $151,000 and brightened the Christmas holiday season for more than 83,000 persons.

Bishop Albert Zurweste of the Catholic Diocese of Belleville was to turn on the Way of Lights and bless a new figure of the infant Jesus at the Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows.

The figure was carved in Bethlehem and placed on the spot regarded as the site of the original crib before being flown to the shrine on U.S. 460 between Belleville and East St. Louis, Ill.

Last year, more than 250,000 persons visited the shrine during the holiday season.

Hijacker Escapes Safely; Takes $200,000 With Him

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A hijacker apparently parachuted to freedom from a commandeered passenger jet after extorting $200,000 from Northwest Airlines with a bomb threat, authorities say.

Two of four parachutes obtained by the middle-aged hijacker from airline officials in Seattle were missing when the plane landed here with four crewmen aboard, the FBI reported today.

"There's no way he could have gotten off in Reno," said Harold E. Campbell Jr., special agent in charge of FBI operations in Nevada. "We had the airport covered."

Officials at McChord Air Force Base near Tacoma refused to say whether the pilots of three planes that trailed the hijacked Boeing 727 airliner saw any parachutes during the flight.

Authorities said the hijacker probably parachuted from the plane sometime after it left Seattle Wednesday night, but apparently there were no witnesses to his escape.

Thirty-six passengers and two stewardesses had been let off the plane in Seattle. But airline officials said the hijacker locked the remaining four crew members in the cockpit after the plane took off again.

"He's in the back of the airplane and everyone else is in front," Federal Aviation Administration supervisor Art Wibom said during the Seattle-to-Reno flight.

The plane made the run at 10,000 feet with its rear stairwell open so the hijacker could bail out if he chose. At that altitude no oxygen was required.

"It would be a very safe drop," said John Wheeler, a Boeing Co. spokesman. "He'd be away from flaps and other engines and go straight down."

The FBI's Campbell said to his knowledge no hijacker had ever escaped by parachuting from a plane.

Law enforcement officers with dogs combed Reno International Airport and the surrounding area after the plane landed. There was no sign of the hijacker, the money or any bomb. A stewardess said the hijacker had cylinders which looked like dynamite and wires led to a briefcase he carried.

The hijacker, who officials say probably boarded the plane in Portland, Ore., took over the jetliner shortly before it was to land in Seattle on a flight from Washington, D.C.

A stewardess said he handed her a note, which said he was hijacking the aircraft, and ordered her to relay instructions to officials on the ground that he wanted $200,000 and four parachutes delivered to him when the plane landed. He displayed the briefcase and cylinders to the stewardess, officials said.

The passengers apparently were unaware a hijacking was under way.

"The crew just said something might be wrong with the plane," Pat Minsch of Anchorage, Alaska, said in Seattle.

"There's nothing unusual looking about him," said another passenger, Richard Simmons of Seattle. "He is middle-aged and was wearing dark glasses."

Campbell said a search for the hijacker would begin in the Portland area of Oregon.

Planning To Storm New Jersey Prison

RAHWAY, N.J. (AP) — A ranking New Jersey state police officer said today troopers and corrections officers would storm Rahway State Prison, where inmates who rioted were holding the warden and five guards as hostages.

An Associated Press newsman asked state police Lt. Gordon Hector, who is principal spokesman for Col. David B. Kelly, superintendent of the state police, "Are you going to storm the prison?" "Yes, we are," Hector replied.

About 50 helmeted troopers, all armed with shotguns, began massing at the entrance to a tunnel-like corridor that leads through the outer wall of the prison into the yard.

Earlier, newsmen had been kept in a room off the corridor, but were evacuated shortly before the troopers arrived.

A state police spokesman said earlier that 150 troopers and 100 corrections officers were standing by at the prison. Police from neighboring towns also were on hand.

The prisoners were holding Warden Hugh Vukcevic and the guards after submitting a list of demands they wanted relayed to the governor.

There was no immediate comment from the governor on the demands.

A sixth guard who was released as a go-between pleaded "Don't let it be another Attica."

The go-between, Eddie Mullins, 38, said the inmates want a meeting with Gov. William T. Cahill.

"They don't want to be killed," Mullins said.

Eleven guards were reported injured—three with stab wounds—during the rioting, which began Wednesday night. It was not immediately known if any inmates were injured.

It also was not known how many of the 1,150 prisoners took part in the disorders or if any of them were armed.

At dawn today, state officials and state police declined to say whether the rioting was still in progress. They would give no details on the prison situation.

Mullins urged officials not to storm the prison and warned, "The inmates feel it is going to be another Attica."

Mullins, referring to the Sept. 10 riot at Attica State Prison in upstate New York which claimed 43 lives, had been held hostage but was released when he agreed to serve as a go-between for the inmates.

Mullins said some of the inmates scribbled a list of demands on a piece of paper before releasing him.

He said, "They wanted me to get out and speak to the administration and try and get them not to storm in there." He added that the inmates wanted to "sit down and talk."

There was no immediate word on whether the governor would meet with the prisoners.

Tom Flynn, a spokesman for Gov. Cahill, said the guards apparently were hurt when they tried to protect the warden from a group of about 150 inmates who refused to leave the prison auditorium after a movie.

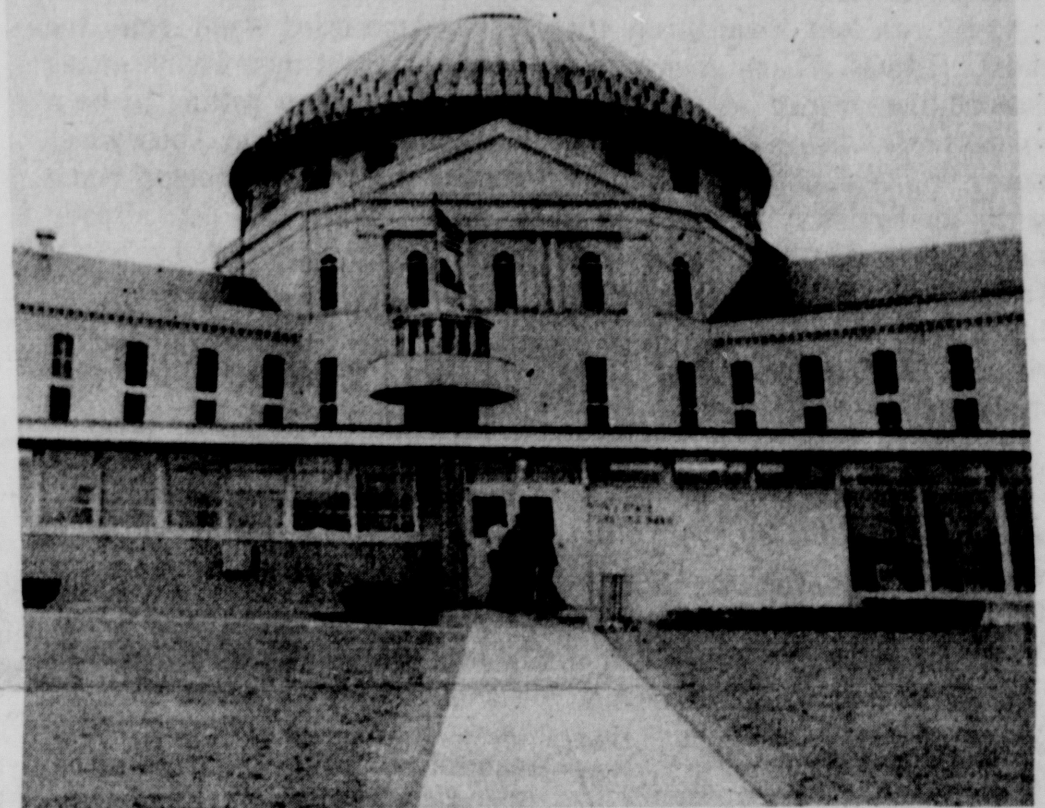

"The warden is missing at this point and we feel he is being held hostage by the prisoners," Flynn said in Trenton, the capital.

One of the injured guards, George Riffell, 39, told newsmen the auditorium "was a wreck."

The rampage broke out while a driving rain and bitter cold winds engulfed the massive prison complex, located 12 miles south of Newark.

Fifty state troopers, backed by police from surrounding towns, were called to the scene. Scores of ambulances, fire trucks and other emergency equipment were standing by outside prison walls.

Holding Warden Hostage

New Jersey state troopers and corrections officers planned Thursday to storm Rahway State Prison, shown here in a file photo, where rioting prisoners were holding the warden and five guards as hostages. The rioting began Wednesday night, but it was unknown how many of the institution's 1,150 prisoners were involved. (UPI)

Three Persons Die In Area Accidents

Three persons died and several were injured Wednesday in area traffic mishaps. Dead are Larry Wayne Harrison, 24, Lexington, formerly of Sedalia; Roger Dale Williams, 18, Cole Camp, and Vivian Lee Carty, 15, Point Lookout.

Harrison died at 1:25 p.m. when his 1966 pickup struck a bridge abutment on I-70. The Highway Patrol reported Harrison was passing eastbound traffic near Odessa when the left front wheel of his vehicle dropped off the edge of the pavement, causing the truck to go out of control. The body was taken to a Lexington funeral home and then brought to Ewing Funeral Home in Sedalia.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

At 6:40 p.m., Vivian Lee Carty, a passenger in a 1966 Plymouth driven by her mother, Norma Jane Carty, 42, Point Lookout, was killed when the car in which she was riding was struck broadside on Highway 7 near Clinton by a 1969 Ford station wagon driven by William Johnson, 43, Kansas City.

Injured were Johnson and his wife Dorothy Johnson, 40, while Mrs. Carty suffered the most serious injuries, fractures of the pelvis and right leg. According to the Highway Patrol, the accident occurred when the westbound Plymouth went up on the lip of the road, went out of control and crossed into the path of the eastbound station wagon.

Roger Dale Williams died when the eastbound 1971 Chevrolet he was driving skidded through the T-intersection of State Line Road and Bucyrus Road in Cass County, hit a dirt embankment and flipped into the air, landing on its top. Injured were Phil Whetstone, 15, who sustained possible internal injuries; David Mitchell, 15, broken back and facial lacerations; and Regina F. Reno, 14, cuts and bruises. All of the injured are from Belton, Mo. The accident occurred at 10:55 p.m.

One person was injured in a one-car accident 1.2 miles south of Route T on Highway 65 at 9 p.m. Wednesday. Taken to Bothwell Hospital for treatment of severe head lacerations was Betty A. Chase, 45, Springfield. She was listed in fair condition by a Bothwell spokesman Thursday morning. The accident occurred as the Chase woman, driving a 1962 Chevrolet, was in the act of passing northbound traffic, met a southbound vehicle, swerved into the ditch adjacent to the roadway and overturned.

No SALT Holiday

VIENNA (AP) — Although it was an American holiday, negotiators of the United States and of the Soviet Union held a two-hour session here today, the fourth in the current round of strategic arms limitation talks—SALT.

It was the 96th session since SALT began more than two years ago, and was held at the U.S. Embassy.

Expect Board's Recommendation

WASHINGTON (AP) — An emergency board is expected to recommend to President Nixon today that he seek injunctions ordering striking dock workers on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts to return to work for a 90-day cooling-off period.

The four-man board, reconvened because of what the White House called a "dim possibility of timely settlement" of the dock strike, met Wednesday afternoon and evening and worked late into the night on its report to the President.

The same board was convened last month and recommended the order that sent striking West Coast dock workers back to work for three months under the Taft-Hartley Act while the shippers and unions try to reach a settlement.

The Eastern ports strike has idled 45,000 longshoremen and 30,000 other union dock workers from Maine to Texas since Oct. 1. Chief government labor mediator J. Curtis Counts said Tuesday negotiations in Miami were deadlocked over money issues.

James J. Dickman, president of the New York Shipping Association and the Council of North Atlantic Shipping Associations, blamed collapse of negotiations on a union demand that New York longshoremen be guaranteed 40 million man-hours of work a year as a base for assessments to finance welfare and pension funds.

"This would have created an impossible economic burden," Dickman said.

He said the International Longshoremen's Association added similar guaranteed-man-hour demands for five other North Atlantic ports and walked out of the talks when the shippers insisted the issue be negotiated locally.

Anthony Scotto, head of the 8,000-member Brooklyn ILA local, said the guarantees were necessary to assure financial integrity of welfare and pension funds.

Shippers reportedly offered a $120 hourly wage increase and 76.5 cents an hour in fringe benefits over a three-year period. The ILA was said to want a flat $2.90 hike from the current base pay of $4.60 an hour.

Even management's reported offer would greatly exceed the 5.5-per-cent yearly wage-hike guideline set out by the federal Pay Board.

Red Chinese, Soviets in Exchange

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Communist China and the Soviet Union accused each other in their first clash here of lining up with the United States.

Chinese Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua told the General Assembly Wednesday night that the Soviet Union and the United States had "concocted" the nuclear test ban and nonproliferation treaties to "camouflage ... their own nuclear arms expansion in the name of disarmament."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik retorted that Chiao had joined Secretary of State William P. Rogers in "a curious Sino-American duet of negativism in regard to the Soviet proposal for the convening of a world disarmament conference."

Chiao, chairman of China's assembly delegation, touched off the confrontation by proposing that a pending Soviet resolution for such a conference "should not be put to vote at this session" of the assembly on grounds that it had no "clear aim."

Malik, head of the Soviet permanent U.N. mission, observed that only Rogers had previously opposed the Soviet proposal. He said the idea of the Chinese had put forward was "the best possible gift they could make to the imperialists, Chiao Kuan-hua . . .

... attacking Soviets who for 26 years have been fighting against disarmament."

Chiao lumped the Soviet Union and the United States together as "two superpowers" using U.N. disarmament resolutions "to hoodwink world opinion."

Malik charged that Chiao "did everything he could do to distort the position of the Soviet Union" on disarmament and that Communist China had poured out "a flood of slander and monstrous invention against the Soviet Union."

Hitting at the Soviet concept of "general and complete disarmament," Chiao said: "It would not be correct indiscriminately to demand disarmament by all countries alike."

He contended that the Africans, the Arabs, and the Indo-Chinese were "compelled" to take up arms to fight variously for national liberation and salvation and against occupation and aggression.

But as for "the two superpowers," he said the people of the world demanded that they withdraw thousands of military bases and more than a million men that they have abroad and the general assembly was duty bound to take effective measures to satisfy that demand.

A Special Meaning For Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving Day shares an interesting distinction with New Year's Day, Independence Day, Labor Day and Christmas. Each of these holidays is observed in every state on the same day.

A glance at the World Almanac's list of 12 "Legal or Public Holidays" shows that seven others are either observed on different days in different states or not observed at all in some states.

For example, 20 states take no official notice of Lincoln's Birthday. Columbus Day is not a holiday in 11 states.

Along with New Year's, July 4th and Christmas, Thanksgiving also escaped the change to observing holidays on Mondays to make them more "convenient" to our fast-paced modern way of life. Such was the fate this year of Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day and the now rather meaningless Veterans Day (nee Armistice Day).

January 1 is, of course, January 1 regardless of the day of the week it falls on. The same with July 4th. Labor Day has always been a Monday. And Christmas is just too special to tamper with.

All of which is a somewhat roundabout way of saying that Thanksgiving Day is a rather special holiday, too, in the minds of Americans, even though there is no historical reason why it should be the fourth or last Thursday in November. It could just as well be the fourth Friday or the fourth Monday. It was not even an annual or national observance until Abraham Lincoln began the tradition in 1864.

But Congress, no doubt remembering how President Franklin D. Roosevelt got roasted instead of the turkey when he tried to change Thanksgiving to the third Thursday, wisely let the tradition stand.

Not that great changes have not overtaken this special day whose roots go the deepest into the country's history.

It has been a long time since many Americans went into the woods and shot their Thanksgiving dinner. It is even getting to be a long time since many housewives went to market and brought home a turkey that was not already preplucked and prestuffed.

It takes an extreme effort to imagine how it must have been on that first Thanksgiving in 1621, when a tiny band of only 55 Pilgrims who had survived the first harsh winter in the New World paused in their labors to give thanks for their first harvest.

Yet, despite the remoteness of the original Thanksgiving in terms of years, it is not so far away in spirit if we but reflect on the manifold blessings we have to be thankful for in this still rather great nation.

Thanksgiving is a special day. Between the feasting and the football watching, may all of us take a few minutes to think about just why it is so special.

U.S. Still Great Despite Bad News

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

SCRABBLE, VA. — These are contentious times, mean and angry times. The car radio, tuned to an all-news station, feeds the listener on sandwiches of dyspepsia—three pieces of bad news between two slices of commercial.

Up at the United Nations, the Red Chinese are hitting the United States; Ambassador Bush is hitting back. The Congress is arguing over campaign spending. A "poisonous" atmosphere—Ted Kennedy's word—beclouds the Rehnquist nomination. Down in Miami, George Meany is again denouncing the perfidious administration. The announcer speaks of smog in Alabama and arson in Oklahoma. Vice President Agnew, ordinarily a man of good taste, has tossed a tasteless slur at Pete McCloskey. Now for this message...

Kilpatrick

It is too much. With a click of release, sweet silence fills the car. The highway that leads me home has nothing much to offer for the first 50 miles; but just west of Amisville, where the new four-lane section begins, an engineer with the soul of an artist laid out a great climbing curve. At its crest the whole world opens. In one glorious burst of trumpets, the Blue Ridge Mountains fill the sky. And the bruised heart gives grateful thanks.

Autumn has come to us late this year. October was dank and damp and filled with sullen days. Now, belatedly, the old tapestry reappears, a little faded, not so brilliant as before; the reds are the reds of embers, not of fire. We have more of rusted iron, and less of gold. But here on this crest, the spirit always lifts. One draws the long breath.

Do we, as Americans, ever truly reflect upon our blessings: Do we understand—really understand—how fortunate we are? Are we so obsessed with the news of badness that we forget about the goodness in our land?

A single Thanksgiving Day is not enough. I have been three months on the road this year, half the time abroad, half the time in travels here at home. Last month, Rio; last week, Chicago; next week, Athens; next month, Detroit. The highway rolls ahead, silver ribbon wound across a Christmas package, but the mind turns back to the darkness of the Transkei, the faces of Kenya, the children of Brazil.

Time after time, in his campaign of 1968, Richard Nixon wound up his speech with the same peroration. We reporters used to put away our pencils when he came to the line. Now, driving home, it comes back with striking force. "If I could have chosen a time and place to be born," Nixon would say, "I would have chosen the 20th century in the United States of America."

He was not speaking especially of our material wealth. The apologetic custom is to minimize this aspect of American society, to dwell upon the deprivations of our poor, to voice shame for the slums of Harlem and guilt for the shacks of Appalachia. Yet the fact is that our people are immensely better off, in the quality of their lives, than most of the people a reporter sees around the world. For these tangible benefits, produced by the energy and inventiveness and ambition of our land, Americans can be honestly grateful.

The things of the spirit count for more. Behind the quarrel over Rehnquist's confirmation lies the abiding concept of equal justice under law. Behind the political bickering is our system of free elections. A labor spokesman denounces a President; it is an exercise in free speech. I am headed home, where I am secure against a midnight pounding on my door. Off to the right, the white steeple of my small-town church catches the westerling sun; I am free to worship as I please.

The roads that have led around the world lead now to a graveled lane, a bridge across White Walnut Run, a lamp in the window, a fire in the kitchen hearth. Wherever you are on this Thanksgiving Day, American, give thanks.

Ecological Verses Sign of the Times

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Hundreds of rhymesters, including several Washington bigwigs, have sent us ecology jingles which may wind up on roadside signs across the country.

Senate Public Works Chairman Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., has drafted legislation that would authorize the placement of environmental signs along federal highways. He will be joined by House Public Works Chairman John Blatnik, D-Minn., who will introduce an identical bill in the House.

Transportation Secretary John Volpe, who sent us a jingle of his own, said he would support the project.

The rush of anti-pollution poetry was touched off by a column we wrote during an auto trip last summer. We dashed off a few ecology jingles, which we suggested might replace the Burma Shave rhymes that have disappeared from our highways.

More than 500 adherents of the Burma Shave culture showered us with jingles, which we are saving for possible roadside signs. Verses have come in from senators, Cabinet members, bank presidents, folk singers, advertising executives, school children and everyday citizens. Here are a few typical selections:

—Rhymes Of The Times

This thing called pollution,
That's racked us from the start,
We've time for a solution
'Til breath do us part.

—Transportation Sec. John Volpe

To market, to market,
To buy a detergent;
Home again, home again,
The cesspool's regurgitant.

—Henry T. Inman, Jr., Philadelphia

Roll on, Potomac, ever murky;
The smog is thick in Albuquerque;
Acid eats Notre Dame's facade;
Is Earth cursed, Marquis de Sade?

—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

There once was a trash can named Ted
Who cried 'cause he never got fed;
He said, "People are cruel,
They litter the school,
And they never can keep me fed."

—Homer Gray, Doug Souza and Brian
McMillen Cherry Avenue School,
Tulare, Calif.

Oh say can you see
By the dawn's early light,
The needless debris
And reversible blight?

—Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans

Deck the hall with boughs of holly,
La la la la — La la la la,
Better wash it first, by golly!
La la la la — La la la la

—Mildred Bird, Washington, D.C.

There once was a man not quite sane,
Who fished in the Hudson, our river of stain;
When the pier did break down,
He fell in, did not drown,
But succumbed the next day from ptomaine.

—Jerry Greenberg, New York City

A sad fate, no mirth,
Nor joy at all;
No fresh green earth,

Just an empty ball.
—Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield

Lucy Locket lost her pocket
Running for the bus;
Now we can't find even Lucy
With all this smoke and dust.
—Emily Odey, Concord, N.H.

We're gonna set our world in balance,
And when that job is done,
Then man and nature live at peace,
One world beneath one Son.
—Pete Seeger, folk singer

A box turtle peeked out from his shell, Took a whiff and exclaimed, "What a smell!
Between the sulphur dioxides,
And pollution at docksides,
This place has become living hell."
—Paul Gaynor, New York City

When you swim in the lakes,
Have no fear of the snakes;
For the final solution
Will be water pollution.
—Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah

Peter, Peter, pumpkin eater,
Had a wife and couldn't keep her;
He moved her to the smog-filled city,
She up and died, 'twas such a pity!
—Margaret L. Schell, Canon City, Colo.

Do you wonder where the yellow goes
Every time you wash your clothes?
Down to the river to pollute the fish,
That may be on your dinner dish.
—Mrs. Harry Phillips, Shavertown, Pa.

Roses are brown,
Roses are dead;
How I would love to see
A rose that is red.

Holiday Puzzles French

(Every Thanksgiving Day the French ambassador to the United States delivers a strong note to the State Department demanding to know why all the government offices in Washington are closed. A fourth secretary on the duty desk at State hands him the following reply in a language the French ambassador will understand.)

Buchwald

WASHINGTON — One of our most important holidays is Thanksgiving Day (known in France as le jour de merci donnait).

Le jour de merci donnait was first started by a group of Pilgrims (pelerins) who fled from l'Angleterre before the McCarran Act to found a colony in the new world (le nouveau monde), where they could shoot Indians (les peaux-rouges) and eat turkey (dinde) to their heart's content. They landed at a place called Plymouth (now a famous voiture Americaine) in a wooden sailing ship called the Mayflower (or Fleur de mai) in 1620. But while the pelerins were killing the dindes, the peaux-rouges were killing the pelerins, and there were several hard winters ahead for both of them. The only way the peaux-rouges helped the pelerins was when they taught them to grow corn (maïs). The reason they did this was because they liked corn with their pelerins.

In 1623, after another harsh year, the pelerins' crops were so good that they decided to have a celebration and give thanks because more maïs was raised by the pelerins than pelerins were killed by les peaux-rouges.

Every year on the jour de merci donnait, parents tell their children an amusing story about the first celebration.

It concerns a brave capitaine named Miles Standish (known in France as Kilometres Deboutish) and a young, shy lieutenant named Jean Alden. Both of them were in love with a flower of Plymouth called Priscilla Mullens (no translation). The vieux capitaine said to the jeune lieutenant:

"Go to the damsel Priscilla (allez tres vite chez Priscilla), the loveliest maiden of Plymouth (la plus jolie demoiselle de Plymouth). Say that a blunt old captain, a man not of words but of action (un vieux Fanfan la Tulipe), offers his hand and his heart, the hand and heart of a soldier. Not in these words, you know, but this, in short, is my meaning.

"I am a maker of war (je suis un fabricant de la guerre) and not a maker of phrases. You, bred as a scholar (vous, qui etes pain comme un etudiant), can say it in elegant language, such as you read in your books of the pleadings and wooings of lovers, such as you think best adapted to win the heart of the maiden."

Although Jean was fit to be tied (convenable a etre emballé), friendship prevailed over love and he went to do his duty. But instead of using elegant language he blurted out his mission. Priscilla was muted with amazement and sorrow (rendue muette par l'etonnement et la tristesse).

At length she exclaimed, interrupting the ominous silence: "If the great captain of Plymouth is so very eager to wed me, why does he not come himself and take the trouble to woo me?" (Ou est-il, le vieux Kilometres? Pourquoi ne vient-il pas aupres de moi pour tenter sa chance?)

Jean said that Kilometres Deboutish was very busy and didn't have time for those things. He staggered on, telling what a wonderful husband Kilometres would make. But finally Priscilla arched her eyebrows and said in a tremulous voice: "Why don't you speak for yourself, John? (a chacun son gout)."

And so, every fourth Thursday in November, American families sit down at a large table brimming with tasty dishes, and for the only time during the year eat better than the French do.

No one can deny that le jour de merci donnait is a grand fete and no matter how well-fed American families are, they never forget to give thanks to Kilometres Deboutish, who made this great day possible.

How do you know when to raise your partner's no-trump opening to four no-trump? It is a simple matter of counting points — the key number is 33 for a small slam.

If you hold just 14 balanced points opposite a no-trump the most your side can have is 32 so you just raise to game. With 17 the least you can have is 33 so you bid six no-trump.

Thus the raise to four no-trump shows 15-16 high-card points. If you have just 15 you need a couple of 10 spots to give your hand some extra playing strength.

North has 15 high-card points plus three of those 10 spots. He raises to four no-trump. South holds 17 points and decides to make the super scientific call of five no-trump. North carries on to the small slam and hopes for the best.

DEATH NOTICES

Vincent Padgett

JEFFERSON CITY — Vincent William Padgett, 71, of Jefferson City, died Wednesday night at the Memorial Community Hospital here.

Born Nov. 15, 1900, he was the son of the late James W. and Emma Webster Padgett.

He was employed for a number of years as a reservations clerk at the Governor Hotel here.

Surviving are a brother, Bill Padgett, Route 2, Sedalia; a nephew, Gregg Padgett, 1634 West Seventh, Sedalia; and two aunts, Mrs. Clem Thornton, Jefferson City and Mrs. Rose Bolton, Versailles.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Kidwell Funeral Home, Versailles.

Burial will be in Versailles Cemetery. The body is at the funeral home.

Russell Augur

WICHITA, Kan. — Russell Augur, 68, formerly of Sweet Springs, Mo., died at Wesley Hospital here Tuesday.

He is survived by his wife Mabel Eaton Augur, of the home here; two daughters and one son; his father, Sail Augur, Marshall, Mo.; four brothers, Everett Augur, Sweet Springs; Ervin Augur and Aubrey Augur, both of Marshall; Thomas Augur, 900 South Grand, Sedalia; and one sister, Mrs. Clyde Hayworth, Forsyth, Mo.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Friday at the Cochran Funeral Home here.

Burial will be in a Wichita Cemetery.

Everett D. Mathis

Funeral services for Everett D. Mathis, 78, 414 East Seventh, who died early Wednesday morning, will be held at the Ewing Funeral Home at 1 p.m. Friday with the Rev. Russell Bellamy, pastor of the Woodridge Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery. The body is at the funeral home.

Youth Being Held In Break-in Case

A 17-year-old youth was being held Thursday morning by Sedalia police for investigation of a break-in and theft at Sedalia Neon Co., 108 South Lamine.

Billy Denton, Route 2, was taken into custody at about 8 a.m. in connection with the break-in, discovered by police at 5:12 a.m.

Entrance was gained to the firm by breaking out an outside window and several dollars in change was taken. Bill Finley, manager of the firm, reported the amount to be around $4, but police said some discrepancy existed since the amount of money found on the suspect was about $11.

Police also discovered a break-in at Clair's Service Station, 520 South Lamine, at 7:54 a.m. It was not known whether anything was taken in that incident or if it was related to the Sedalia Neon break-in, according to police.

Open Forum Set By School Board

The Sedalia board of education will hold its second open forum of the year at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Smith-Cotton Library to answer questions from the public.

Members of the school board will form a panel during the question and answer session, which will be moderated by Jim Hurst. At the first meeting in September, 46 citizens participated.

The idea for the meetings originated with the League of Women Voters. The sessions are designed to improve communications between the public and the board of education. Encouraged by the League, a citizens committee was later formed to set up the meetings.

U. S. Asks For Calm In Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, showing increasing concern over the possibility of a general war between India and Pakistan, has called on both nations to disengage and pull back their troops from battle areas.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers asked diplomats from both nations to see him in his office Wednesday "in light of the military clashes that have appeared to have taken place."

During the separate, 20-minute meetings, the secretary said that unless the fighting ends on the East Pakistani border and troops are withdrawn, serious consequences could be expected, meaning a general war.

This was the first acknowledgement by the State Department it has direct intelligence of actual fighting between Indians and Pakistanis, although department spokesman Charles W. Bray continued to refuse to discuss who had invaded whose territory.

Another sign of the American concern was the State Department suggestion that U.S. citizens leave at least two cities in Pakistan—Dacca and Lahore. Dacca was no surprise since it is near the current fighting, but Lahore is some 1,000 miles away near the Indian-West Pakistani border.

Administration officials say there is no fighting there, but acknowledged Lahore would be a likely battle area if the conflict spreads.

Sources maintained this does not mean a general war is imminent, but they acknowledge the possibility is present enough to take precautions.

While Rogers said the troop pullbacks, which were agreed to previously by Pakistan, is the most immediate way to prevent escalation toward fullscale war, U.S. officials consider the United Nations Security Council as holding the potential for a more nearly permanent settlement.

It is unclear how exactly the Security Council might deal with the problem, but officials here are known to feel the other big powers are interested in trying.

The United States has been in touch with the Soviet Union, France and Great Britain about the Pakistani-India situation. While there has been no contact with China, this is still a possibility since Peking reportedly has counseled restraint by Pakistan.

The exact nature of the American peace efforts is unknown beyond disclosure of Rogers' Wednesday meetings and acknowledgement of the previous contacts with the two involved nations and the big powers.

Bray refused Wednesday to discuss any elements of the American role. He even refused to confirm or deny a statement made in a letter to the Nov. 3 New York Times by Benjamin H. Oehlert Jr., former U.S. ambassador to Pakistan, that a long-standing agreement commits the United States to aid Pakistan "even with our own arms and men" if attacked.

Texas Man Held For Trial Here

Donald Earl Asbury, Dallas, Tex., was bound over for trial in Pettis County Circuit Court Wednesday by Magistrate Judge Frank Armstrong.

Asbury is charged with stealing over $50 in connection with the theft of a 1971 Dodge he rented from the Avis rental agency here and allegedly failed to return. The car was rented in February of this year and he was arrested in a Lincoln motel on Oct. 21.

Asbury was remanded to the custody of the Pettis County Sheriff and is being held in the Pettis County Jail in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Accident Injures Sedalia Woman

Sedalia woman sustained facial lacerations in a one-car accident on West 16th about 2 a.m. Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Lynne Block, 31, 807 Ruth Ann Drive, lost control of her westbound 1967 Cadillac on the wet surface of 16th just west of Barrett.

Her car veered to the left and struck a tree in the median.

She was taken to Bothwell Hospital by private car and treated for facial lacerations, according to police.

Lowest Overall Total

American combat casualties of five killed and four wounded last week were the lowest overall total on the Indochina war records going back to the beginning of 1965, the U.S.

Command reported Thursday. The five GIs killed bring the American war dead total to 45,604 since Jan. 1, 1961.

(UPI)

Low Casualty Report

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported today that American casualties in Vietnam last week were the lowest on its records—five men killed and four wounded.

A spokesman said the nine casualties were the smallest combined number since early 1965, the period when American forces began large-scale combat operations and when the U.S. Command began recording casualties on a weekly basis.

The five men reported killed in the week ending last Saturday midnight marked the seventh straight week that U.S. battle deaths were eight or fewer and the second consecutive week of five deaths.

The figure of four men wounded last week was the lowest on record in that category and a drop of 17 from the wounded figure for the previous week.

The continuing low level reflected both the U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam and the disengagement of remaining forces from a combat role.

The U.S. Command also reported that 13 Americans died last week from accidents and illnesses, a drop of nine deaths from nonhostile causes in the previous week. South Vietnamese headquarters reported 276 government troops were killed and 514 were wounded last week, compared with 219 killed and 457 wounded a week earlier.

The allied command jointly claimed 1,010 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers were killed last week, a drop from the 1,065 claimed killed during the previous week.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,604 killed in action, 302,205 wounded, 9,947 dead from nonhostile causes.

South Vietnamese—135,972 killed, 294,507 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—783,417 killed.

Americans Observing Holiday

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer

Thanksgiving, a tradition that traces to the first colonial settlers, is observed today by Americans at home and abroad with special attention to sharing the abundance of the nation's table.

It is a day of prayer services and parades, feasting and football. Many groups and individuals also took time to open their doors to the orphaned, lonely and needy who might otherwise have no place to go.

In South Vietnam, 180,000 American servicemen marked what is expected to be the last Thanksgiving for any sizable U.S. contingent in Indochina. Withdrawals are scheduled to reduce the force to 40,000 next year.

All the troops got the traditional turkey and trimmings, as did 13,000 Navy personnel aboard aircraft carriers and other 7th Fleet ships off the Vietnam coast.

President and Mrs. Nixon, spending their first Thanksgiving away from the White House since he took office, flew Wednesday night to their San Clemente, Calif., home.

They were met by a group of local businessmen with whom the President chatted about the Thanksgiving Day football games, including the Nebraska-Oklahoma contest which he intends to watch on television.

When the President was asked for a prediction on the game, Mrs. Nixon laughingly admonished her husband, telling him: "Don't make any predictions, Dick." And the President did not.

For many youngsters the day begins with television coverage of the 44th annual Macy's parade in New York City featuring 10 behemoth balloons.

For 30 orphans from the St. Agnes Home for Boys at Sparkill, N.Y., the day's highlight is a bus trip to West Point where they are guests of the cadet corps for dinner, a tour of the academy and a movie.

For lonely adults, the Salvation Army will serve thousands of free dinners at its facilities in cities across the country. An estimated 4,000 persons will be served in Chicago alone.

In New York, nearly a ton of turkey will be served by the Volunteers of America to 3,000 men and women on the Bowery.

In Dallas, Tex., more than 1,500 persons are expected for a people's picnic in Lee Park. The food "for anyone who needs a place to eat" was contributed by local businessmen.

With all the sharing and celebration, the day was not without its touch of protest and controversy as well.

At Quang Ngai, 300 miles northeast of Saigon, the American and British staff of the Quaker Service Rehabilitation Center joined in an all-day fast for peace and total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina.

In Plymouth, Mass., where a group of residents will be re-enacting the 1623 Thanksgiving celebration of the Plymouth Colony, Indian delegates from a number of American tribes planned a protest.

"To the Indian, it is the reverse of Thanksgiving. What have we to be thankful for?" asked one delegate. "For 380 broken treaties? For the loss of our lands?"

Historians noted it was not the first such outcry. When Gov. John Jay proclaimed the first Thanksgiving in New York in 1796 to give thanks for peace with "hostile" Indians he created a small uproar
